—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE FEDERAL RESERVE. That institution, established to stabilize credit and prevent panics, succeeded in creating a baby panic in Wall Street yesterday, knocking down prices of good stocks and bad stocks—especially good.

A lamb usually sells his good stocks to protect his bad stocks.

The Federal Reserve advisory council recommended an increase in discount rates. Fifteen and 20 per cent usury doesn't satisfy some financial gentlemen. It seems plenty to those that pay it.

Wall Street heard the news and prices slumped. If the Federal Reserve had been established to make money expensive, and credit uncertain, and to injure business, it would be a success.

On Tuesday an army plane circled over Governor's Island, flew up Broadway above Manhattan's richest district, theoretically "bombed New York" and escaped to Washington.

Anti-aircraft defenses knew the attack was coming, but nobody saw the bombing plane. Anti-aircraft guns were theoretically and actually useless.

If it had been a real attack there would have been 50 bombing planes instead of one, and the planes would not have "escaped to Washington," as was theoretically done on Tuesday.

They would have flown from New York to a mother ship, 100 or 200 miles off shore, taking on a new load of bombs, and then going to bomb Washington, and, with poison gas, wipe out every public official from the Capitol to the White House.

If our air defense cannot even locate and theoretically repel one bombing plane, after having been warned in advance of its coming, what chance would our big cities have against bombing planes and swift pursuit planes, launched unexpectedly from ships off shore?

Wonderful Lloyd George. He fights the Tories as though he had never managed a World War or been subject to any strain.

In the unpronounceable town of Pennsenhawyr, Lloyd George told a crowd of Welshmen and Englishmen: "I would condemn Winston Churchill for a whole month to push a perambulator along a road without any footpaths."

Lloyd George would put unemployed Britishers to work improving old roads, building new roads, and establishing footpaths for women with baby carriages.

Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, rides in an automobile, doesn't notice baby carriages, and calls Lloyd George's plan "extravagant waste."

New York, according to its able police commissioner, Mr. Whalen, possesses 32,000 speakeasies and 18,000 policemen to regulate the speakeasies.

Commissioner Whalen now appoints 160 policemen as supervisors to make sure that the remaining 17,840 policemen keep out of the 32,000 speakeasies—as bistoners.

Just how 160 men can keep 17,840 men from dropping into any one of 32,000 retail rum stores is not clear, but Mr. Whalen's ideas are usually good.

In the old days, New York had 6,000 saloons and 3,000 policemen, one saloon to one policeman, and about the same number of school teachers.

Now it has about two speakeasies for each policeman.

There is a difference between prohibiting and preventing.

Dr. Cooper, federal commissioner of education, tells the Association for Adult Education that the United States voters "have an average of sixth or seventh grade levels." He recommends further expansion of adult education.

What citizens lack is not education, but interest in their government. Lack of interest is proved by the vote of only 50 in 100 that could vote.

A little more "fractions, algebra and geography" won't help voters to solve the problems of our increasingly complicated social and economic life.

At the beginning of his term, President Hoover, in accordance with custom, received all visitors to the White House, Tom, Dick and Harry, on three days each week, then wisely cut public receptions to two days a week. Now receptions are reduced to one day a week, Wednesday.

Another improvement would eliminate public receptions entirely. The President is not elected to be a curiosity, shaking hands, but to attend to public business.

The public should be content to study and know the President on the things that he accomplishes.

VETERANS APPEAL TO HOOVER

Disabled veterans of Massachusetts, through the State Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today appealed directly to President Hoover to extend the time limit, due to expire May 29, of the law allowing appeal to the court from disability rulings of the U. S. Veterans Bureau.

Thousands of disabled veterans throughout the country are unaways that when the Veterans' Bureau denied them total disability, as defined under the government insurance and the World War Veterans' Act, they have appeal to a jury through the federal courts. State Commander Joseph H. Hanken, of the Veterans' Bureau, declared in a telegram addressed to the President.

FIGHTS FOR PUBLIC TO OWN 'L'

In an atmosphere surcharged with excitement in the House today, Representative James J. Twohig of South Boston fought long and vigorously for public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway.

Facing the possibility of complets failure to settle the Elevated problem, due to divergence of views, the members listened closely to Twohig and repeatedly voted him an extension of time, but Speaker Saltonstall finally adjourned the session, cutting him short.

The Elevated in 1918 was a junk heap with stock selling for $27 a share and the system virtually bankrupt, but since then the people have poured $58,000,000 into it, Twohig declared.

He contended that the fare was raised to 10 cents not for the purpose of paying the carmen's increased wage but to pay dividends, saying that the stockholders had received $25,000,000 dividends in the last 10 years.

SAVES $200,000,000.

He warned that not one cent of the $1,349,000 still owing to cities and towns would be paid if the road went back to private ownership.

Under his bill, Twohig said, the road could be taken over by the State with a cash outlay of $50,000,000, whereas the bill passed by the

Morrow on Way Home, Guarded

Mexico City, May 23 (INS)—U. S. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow is today on his way to North Haven, Me., to be present at the wedding of his daughter, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The train is heavily guarded. Only Presidents and ex-Presidents in Mexico have been so fully protected by military escorts.

Upon orders from President Portes Gil, a regiment of infantry, including a machine gun detachment, composed the ambassador's bodyguard. At "exploration train," carrying 200 soldiers, moved in advance of the express train.

Ambassador Morrow is traveling by way of Laredo, Tex. He expects to stop off in Washington for a few days and may confer briefly in New York before continuing to North Haven, where the wed-

NON-STOP PLANES GOING STRONG

Fort Worth, Tex., May 23 (AP)—The endurance monoplane Fort Wayth completed its ninety-sixth hour in the air at 11:33 o'clock this morning.

The plane was refuelled with 110 gallons of gasoline and 4½ quarts of oil in the tenth contact with the auxiliary ship at 7 a. m. Food change of clothing, newspapers and mail were lowered to the pilots, R. L. Robbins and James Kelly.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 22 (INS)—After nearly 12 hours of night flying over Long Island, the Three Musketeers, piloted by Lieut. "Buddy" Lake, Martin Jensen and William Ulbrecht, who are out to set a new endurance record for refueling plane, made their first pickup of gas today.

A leak was discovered in the carburetor, making it necessary for Martin Jensen, armed with a pocket flashlight, to crawl out on the narrow catwalk for emergency

CANTER ON TRIAL AS 'DEFAMER'

Harry J. Canter of East Boston took the witness stand in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today and denied that he had slandered former Governor Alvan T. Fuller by carrying a placard bearing the words, "Fuller, Murderer of Face to Vanzetti."

Canter admitted, however, that at the time he thought Gov. Fuller was "morally responsible" for the deaths of the two radicals, and declared that he still thinks so.

The trial is before Judge Robert F. Raymond and a jury and the courtroom was thronged with spectators, men and women, while hundreds were unable to obtain admittance.

65 UNDERGO NEW SERGEANTCY TEST

The 65 Boston patrolmen who failed to pass the physical examination for the rank of sergeant several weeks ago reported at the Civil Service Commission today to be re-examined. Dr. Sumner G. Andrews was in charge of the examination.

The officers were turned down for a number of reasons, some because of bunions, flat feet or defective eyesight. The first examination was so stiff that the majority of the candidates failed to pass and as a result of their protests a new examination was ordered.

WANTS $500,000 FOR STOLEN LOVE

New York, May 23 (AP)—Suit for $500,000 damages charging alienation of affections was filed today by Ray H. Arnold, wealthy Wall Street broker, against Charles Hann, Jr., attorney for Mrs. Arnold in a pending divorce action.

The Arnolds are suing each other for divorce and Mrs. Arnold is receiving temporary alimony of $3,-333.33 a month, said to be a record figure for the courts here.

The Arnold were married in Los Angeles on July 21, 1903, and before their estrangement lived at Greenwich, Ct. It was there, according to Arnold, that Hann alienated Mrs. Arnold's affections.

WITCHCRAFT PAIR VERDICT STANDS

York, Pa., May 23 (AP)—In opinions handed down today by Judge R. P. Sherwood new trials were denied John Blymyer and John Curry, two of the slayers of Nelson D. Rehmeyer, farmer, in the so-called York County witchcraft case. Each was sentenced to prison for life.

Wilbert G. Hess, who was convicted of second degree murder for his part in the killing, was sentenced to 10 to 20 years. Curry is 34 years of age.

hectic days preceding the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti figured during the examination of police witnesses called to testify for the government.

There was tense silence and spectators craned forward as copies of the death warrants for Sacco and Vanzetti and certificates of their execution were offered by Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel J. Gillen.

Prominent among the spectators were former Superior Court Judge Robert Grant, who was a member of the special committee appointed by Governor Fuller to review the Sacco-Vanzetti evidence, and Atty. William G. Thompson, who was chief counsel for the executed radicals.

JURORS CHALLENGED

Canter is represented by Arthur Garfield Hays, New York attorneys, and Atty. Harry Hoffman. Asst. Dist. Atty. Gillen is prosecuting the case. During the selection of the jury the government and defense each challenged two talesmen, as allowed by law.

A stenographer appointed by the court at the request of Atty. Hoffman took down the evidence. The jury empanelled is as follows:

Patrick M. Mooney, clerk, of Richfield st., foreman.
George L. Allen, janitor, of Thompson st.
William F. Batts, clerk, of Bellflower st.
Thomas M. Coleman, longshoreman, of Jeffries st.
William J. Crimlisk, janitor, of Mr. Vernon st.
Joseph F. Doran, mover, of Champney pl.
Thomas Coleman, molder, of Gleason st.
Matthew Fallon, Jr., manager, of Dorchester ave.
Leslie H. Henry, carpenter, of Bexley rd.
William A. Howsberger, machinist, of Dorchester ave.
Harry E. Rambeau, clerk, of Rowena st.
George C. Robinson, packer, of Washington ave., Chelsea.

Among the witnesses summoned by the defense were Pres. A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard; Dr. Karl Samuel F. Stratton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but they were excused from appearing by consent of counsel for both sides. Statements of facts as to what they would have testified to were accepted in lieu of personal appearance.

POLICEMAN ON STAND

Five witnesses, all police officers, were sworn in after reading of the indictment to testify for the government.

In opening, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gillen defined the offence of criminal slander and stated that regardless of how the defamed person regarded it, the commonwealth prosecuted because it had a direct tendency to breach of the public peace.

"In this case the crime of murder was imputed to Alvan T. Fuller, then governor of the commonwealth. That is obvious from the words on the placard borne by the defendant," said Gillen.

"The government urges that these words constitute an offence. We will introduce evidence to prove that the statement on the placard was absolutely false and defamatory."

The first witness called was Sergt. Frank H. Kenyon of the State police, who said that on Nov. 2, 1928, he saw Canter in front of the State House marching at the head of about 25 persons.

"I stopped Canter and took the placard from him, writing his name on the back of it," said the witness.

At this point the placard was introduced and witness asked if he could identify it. He said it was the one he had taken from Canter.

Cross-examined by Atty. Hoffman Hayes as to whether he considered there was a breach of the peace, witness answered "Yes."

Q.—Was anybody disorderly? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did anyone in the crowd do anything disorderly? A.—No.

Witness said the marchers were arrested for breach of the peace by loitering and sauntering.

Q.—You knew that Sacco and Vanzetti had been in jail for some time? A.—Yes.

ATTORNEYS IN CLASH.

Q.—You knew they had been executed—

At this point Asst. Dist. Atty. Gillen entered objection and after a verbal encounter with Atty. Hays the court excluded the question.

A similar clash occurred when Hays asked the witness as to what he took the words on the placard to mean.

The next witness was Sergt. Manning, who corroborated the testimony of the previous witness. He added that when the marching began he had warned the marchers that if they continued to saunter more than seven minutes, they would be arrested. They continued to march and the arrests followed.

Witness then related a conversation between Capt. McDesavits and Canter at the joy st. police station after the arrests. Witness said that Capt. McDesavits asked Canter what he meant by carrying such a placard.

FULLER "RESPONSIBLE."

Canter's reply, witness said, was "Sacco and Vanzetti were illegally executed and Governor Fuller is responsible."

Cross-examined by Atty. Hays, Sergt. Manning said that Canter did not say that Governor Fuller had actually killed Sacco and Vanzetti, but that he was responsible for their deaths.

Only these two prosecution witnesses were called, as Atty. Hayes agreed with Asst. Dist. Atty. Gillen that a placard had been carried by the defendant.

The defense in its opening sought to show that the former Governor was "morally responsible" for what the placard termed "the murder of Sacco and Vanzetti." Attempts by Hayes to inject phases of the famous case into the present trial were overruled by Judge Raymond. Hays said he would take exceptions to the judge's rulings.

At the conclusion of the prosecution's case, Canter took the witness stand and testified that when asked at the police station why he broke the law he had replied: "These laws were not made for workers."

LEADERS ARE IN COURT.

Among prominent persons attending or summoned as witnesses were Miss Ellen Hayes, former professor at Wellesley College; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former editor of the Boston Herald; John F. Moors of the Boston Finance Commission, H. W. L. Dana and Atty Herbert Erhmann.

Expectations this afternoon were that former Governor Fuller would appear in court in answer to a subpoena issued at the request of defense counsel, and also Albert Boeco, editor of an Italian newspaper.

CRAPE ON "DEAD" POLE

Without much solemnity and with quite a bit of merriment Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick and Miss Mary Frances MacPherson of Oakton ave. today conducted "last rites" for the pole in the hole war and placed flowers and crape on the big timber which they prevented the phone company from erecting. of Oakton ave. who have defied the telephone company to erect the last pole in the thoroughfare, were cheered by the sight of three telephone workers with a tape measure.

Carefully, from the foundation of each house on the street out to the center of the street, the men measured with their tape—and the women declared triumphantly that the measuring meant only one thing—that the company intends putting wires underground and taking down the poles.

Her belief was given foundation when it was learned that Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman has requested the telephone company to bury the wires in Oakton ave.

MAY SEEK WRIT

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, who originally started the retaliation by sitting in a hole dug for the last hole, declared that she felt certain the war would be won and an official communique issued by the telephone company within a few hours.

If not, she said, she will seek an injunction against the company to prevent it completing stringing of overhead wires.

Unfatigued after her all-night vigil, Mrs. Fitzpatrick stated that she was more than ever determined that the post would ascend toward the clouds in that spot only over her dead body.

"We have employed counsel, former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, and we will seek an injunction in Suffolk Superior Court today," she said.

SIDE WITH WOMEN

I feel that an injunction restraining them from putting up the pole at that place will solve the entire situation.

"If any attempt was made to put up that pole last night or this morning, I was determined to have those who tried arrested for disturbing the peace."

20 P. C. BOOT, SHOE TARIFF IS REPORTED

Washington, May 23—Scores of amendments, many of them involving important rates, were placed before the Republican House membership today by the Republicans of the ways and means committee in an effort to allay dissatisfaction among members over the pending tariff bill.

The ways and means committee's proposal for a 10 per cent duty on hides and 20 per cent on boots and shoes was among those reported to the conference. These rates include:

Boots and shoes generally 20 per cent; if uppers composed wholly or in chief value of wool, cattle or animal hair fiber or substitutes, whether or not soles composed of leather, wood or other material, 35 per cent.

Leather, sole or belting leather suitable for shoes, 12½ per cent; leather welting 12½ per cent; leather for harness, saddles, 12½ per cent; side uppers, including grain, for boots and shoes, 15 per cent; upholstery, collar, bag, or football leather, 20 per cent; all others rough, unfinished or finished leather if for shoes, 10 per cent; decorated leather 30 per cent.

Republican leaders hope to win united support for a rule which would permit amendments to be offered only by Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee, who framed the measure, but such an agreement hinged upon the concessions which the tariff framers have agreed to make to those dissatisfied with certain proposed rates.

KILL HAYS' BILL MOVE

Senate and now before the House authorizing the trustees to spend $250,000,000.

He attacked the provision of the Senate bill, providing for extension of public control for 10 years, saying one section continued this control to 1935, and he also assailed "vote-catching provisions," such as removal of the Elevated structure in Charlestown and certain rapid transit extensions.

Twohig was among the have his minority report from the committee on metropolitan affairs, calling for public ownership by the metropolitan district, substituted for the bill now before the House, which the Senate has passed.

HAYS LOSES FIGHT

Previous to Twohig's speech, the House rejected a motion by Representative Martin Hays of Brighton to go into committee of the whole for further investigation of the Elevated measure. This motion, which was by an overwhelming voice vote, followed a red-hot debate, in the course of which Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston referred to the pending bill as "damaged goods."

Following this action, the bill for extension of public control for 10 years, passed by the Senate, came up on the question of sending it on to third reading, or final stage, and debate recommenced.

A hint that the problem may not be pressed to a solution at this session of the legislature was given by Rep. Jewett, Republican floor leader, during discussion of the Hays motion.

"Suppose we do not come to a solution this year, that isn't going to be an alarming thing, is it?" asked Jewett, whose remarks were given close attention due to his position in the party organization.

"If there is no solution this year, we will have another try next year."

Prior to debate on the Hays motion the House ways and means committee report, asking to be discharged from consideration of Elevated matters because it could not agree on a bill, was accepted by a voice vote.

Personalities were flung at Representative Hays and others during the debate that followed introduction of his motion.

He urged that if the House went into committee of the whole, it could call Atty.-Gen. Warner and Chairman Attwill of the Public Utilities Commission before it for questioning. He cited precedents and said fair play demanded this thorough sifting of the problem.

"A burnt child dreads fire, and we have dread another burning," he remarked. "As for the Senate—so well were they posted that they passed without debate. I have no purpose of delay in making my suggestion."

Rep. Twohig said he could not see how there would be fuller discussion in committee of the whole than in regular session, adding:

"I don't believe in going into any more holes, either committee of the whole or any other hole. We've been in enough holes now."

CITES DEFECTS.

He remarked that there were plenty of persons who did not know what the bill meant, and said that Atty. H. Ware Barnes, representing the public trustees, "the man who drew the bill," admitted there should be a lot of changes and could not explain some of the provisions intelligently.

Rep. Shattuck pointed out that the Ways and Means Committee, of which he was chairman, had found many defects in the bill and he called it "damaged goods." Rep. Larson, Everett, said he was "afraid of what Hays has up his sleeve." He said no one would know what preceded the House would become entangled in if it went into committee.

Angry, Rep. Hays retorted by saying he would take his coat off and roll up his shirt sleeve to show there was nothing there but "an arm used to toil."

MORROW IS ON WAY TO MAINE

ding is expected to take place on June 15. He will be absent from Mexico about two months.

Because of letters received at the Embassy, some of them threatening, it was deemed advisable for Mr. Morrow to leave quietly. This precaution was influenced also by disturbed conditions in some parts of the northern states where revolutionary fighting was in progress only a short time ago.

Mr. Morrow was asked if it were absolutely certain that the marriage of Miss Anne and Col. Lindbergh would take place on June 15, as reported.

"I don't even know myself," he replied smiling.

Lindy Cancels Plans to Lead "Sky Parade"

Chicago, May 23 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, expected in Chicago today to lead a "sky parade" of 200 sales managers, flying to a convention in Milwaukee, has been forced to cancel his proposed trip here and will remain in the East, according to a telegram received today from the Guggenheim Foundation in New York.

New York, May 23—Having safely transported home from Maine the womenfolk of the Morrow family, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was uncommunicative today as to his plans.

Just when the bonds of matrimony might settle their weight on Lindy's wings was still a mystery today, although North Haven, Me., residents were holding fast to their notion that the wedding ceremony would take place there at the Morrow summer home on June 17.

ESCAPES INTERVIEWS

When the Lindbergh-Morrow party's big amphibian plane swooped down on the quiet waters of Hempstead harbor, Port Washington, L. I., near the Harry F. Guggenheim estate, inquisitive newspapermen were momentarily missing.

Mrs. Morrow, with her daughters, Anne, Constance, and Elisabeth, and Mrs. Dwight Whitney Graeme, the secretary, were ferried quickly ashore, unintercepted.

After dropping his passengers, Col. Lindbergh took off again, circled over Port Washington and came down in Manhasset bay, which is divided from Hempstead harbor by Sands Point. The flier taxied up to the ramp in front of the hangars of Harold Vanderbilt, Edsel F. Hoyt and Clebe Bragg, who made his plans fast to a float and came ashore.

BORROWS MORROWS

From one of the hangars he telephoned the Loening factory at the East river and Thirty-first st., Manhattan, where Harry Lauson of the Loening Co. and a landing crew awaited him at the private seaplane ramp maintained by the Aircraft Co. there.

The colonel then hurried to a waiting car, drove to the Guggenheim house, which is about four miles from the airplane anchorage, and there he again rejoined the Morrows.

Motor Boat Groups in Joint Session

With trips in speedy power boats in Dorchester Bay, and an invitation of hulls, dinner and addresses at Walker Memorial, M. I. T., the joint meeting of the New England Section, S. A. E., and the New England Outboard Motor Boat Association was concluded.

There were about 200 present at the Boston Yacht Club at South Boston, where speed boats, outboard motor racing craft and inboard runabouts were on display, and two hours. These trips gave those participating real thrills when the boats maneuvered in circles at speed.

'CRUSADERS' IN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

Members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce "land cruise," who travelled 12,000 miles in 30 days crusading for Boston and Massachusetts, were given a boisterous welcome on their return to the city today.

Enthusiastic receptions at the North Station, the State House and City Hall marked the end of the most pretentious effort to boost Boston and its business ever undertaken by the Chamber.

As the "Crusaders' Special" pulled into North Station at 10:30 all locomotives in the yards and train shed sounded their whistles and the large crowd gathered on the concourse to welcome the returning travellers cheered to the echo.

FLAGS ARE WAVED

As the train came to a stop attendants stood on the platform of each coach waving large silk American flags. First to step from the train was the advance reception committee which went to Troy, N. Y., and met the homecomers when they arrived there. This party consisted of Mayor Nichols, President George Hauptner of the Boston & Maine and Vice-President Nathan W. Hawes, President Henry I. Harriman of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and James H. Walsh.

VISIT STATE HOUSE.

After an exchange of greetings, in which the crusaders expressed themselves happy to be back in Boston "after a whale of a time," the entire party entered waiting motor buses and proceeded to the State House to be received by Gov. Allen.

In welcoming the cruisers at City Hall, Mayor Nichols said he was pleased with their work in advertising Boston, especially with respect to the development of the East Boston airport and the port.

"You have sensed the importance of commercial flying," said the mayor to the group in his office, "and I am deeply gratified with your report that our airport is fast forging ahead of all those in the country.

Each member was presented by Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber. The governor said he appreciated the visit and expressed the belief that Massachusetts and New England has been the gainer for the tour.

After the official welcome on Beacon Hill, the party went to City Hall, where Mayor Nichols extended the welcome for the citizens of Boston. A luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce building ended the festivities.

T. F. Joyce, assistant vice-president of the Boston & Maine, discussing the transportation phases of the trip at the Chamber luncheon, said the cruise just ended was probably the longest of its kind ever undertaken by railroad.

"We found confirmation of the broader markets which New England now enjoys," said Mr. Joyce, "and are agreed that the circle of New England trade influence is broadening."

Funeral Services for Boston Banker

Funeral services for Edwin A. Stone, connected with the Franklin Savings Bank for 40 years, and widely known in banking circles, were held at the chapel in Mt. Auburn cemetery, with the Rev. Klein K. Haddaway of Winter Hill Congregational Church, Somerville, officiating.

HITS APPRAISAL OF GAS COMPANY AS 'SUSPICIOUS'

Wycliffe C. Marshall, representing the consumers protesting against the proposed 50-cent service charge of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co., today at a continued hearing before the Public Utilities Commission, attacked the difference of $10,000,000 between the $41,000,000 book value and the recent $51,000,000 appraisal of the company.

Marshall, an attorney, characterized the $10,000,000 as "modest, but suspicious." He predicted that the appraisal was made for the purpose of the sale of the company in the near future.

The service charge, he contended, is simply a stepping stone to a larger service charge. He said there is no question that the company has been a profitable undertaking.

Since 1922, he said, there has been an increase in value at the mains amounting to 65 per cent. The company wants to get the business to utilize that greatly increased capacity, he said.

VETS APPEAL TO HOOVER

their rights, do not know that the provision allowing appeal to the courts expires next week, it is pointed out.

Commander Hanken, Past Commander John H. Wallace and Department Quartermaster Willim Dinsmore have sent telegrams similar to that received from Hoover to every Senator and congressman from Massachusetts and to Gen. Frank Hines, Veterans Bureau director, urging them to prevail upon the President to extend the time limit of the provision.

APPEAL TO HOOVER

The appeal to President Hoover read in part:

"We urge you to extend Section 19, World War Veterans' act, as amended, due to the fact that less than 1 per cent of the veterans have taken advantage of this particular section because of ignorance of their rights."

A Massachusetts veteran who was denied disability by teh Veterans' Bureau recently appealed to the federal court and was awarded $7000 retroactive disability by a jury, Past Commander Wallace pointed out.

The maximum fee an attorney may accept under the provision of teh act is $10 and 10 per cent of the jury award to his client.

TEACHER SUES GIRL PUPIL

Providence, May 23—Charging that her statements cost him a position in Newtucket Junior High School, Alfred Binford, Cumberland, R. I., teacher, today filed suit for $1000 against Miss Lettie Card, 20, at Attleboro.

According to the suit, Miss Card claimed that Binford was the father of her child, with the result that his application for the position was turned down.

AIR CONVOY FOR OCEAN FLIERS

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The coast guard has instructed its base at Gloucester, Mass., to provide an air convoy to the transatlantic fliers when they take off from Old Orchard, Me.

The convoy will accompany the fliers for 200 miles. The coast guard cutters Mojave and Modoc and other coast guard craft in the Atlantic have been ordered to keep a watch for the fliers.

Overseas Hop Held Up by Bad Weather

Old Orchard, Me., May 23—With unfavorable winds and stormy conditions over the Atlantic the proposed flight to Rome is again postponed.

The unfavorable weather reports, announcing poor flying weather half way across the Atlantic, were received by Capt. Roger Q. Williams of the Green Flash a few minutes before he and Capt. Lewis Yancey were to depart for the hangar to personally supervise the loading of 560 gallons of gasoline in the plane.

Dr. James D. Kimball, in his weather report, advised the fliers to wait until Friday morning for the takeoff. The monoplane Bernard 191 is piloted by Armeno Lottie.

Both Lotti and Williams are keen for an early takeoff. They might be referred to as friendly enemies, each, of course, anxious to get away from the shores of America before the other.

Both fliers stated today that they expected that the flight would take approximately 45 hours. They have a gasoline supply sufficient to keep them in the air for 50 hours. The Bernard monoplane will carry 1000 gallons of gasoline, an amount used in long hops from the air for 40 hours.

LAST 2 TRIALS ON IN OLD U. S. BUILDING

At the conclusion of two trials now before juries in Federal court, the old Federal Building will close its doors on government activities after an existence of more than half a century.

In excusing a panel of petit jurors today, Judge Brewster ordered them to report for duty Monday at Young's Hotel, temporary quarters for Federal courts and allied departments, in which a government building is being erected on the old site in Postoffice sq.

The order was the first official intimation of the date of transfer of the remaining departments from the Federal Building to Young's, although the corridors of the older structure have been piled high for a week with packing cases containing records.

The two cases being heard, which will be the last to be tried in the half-century old courthouse, are those of Samuel Saulich, charged with uttering counterfeit $20 bills and a civil suit brought by Virginia Lemay of Worcester against the Standard Oil Company of New York.

eral other men who were to appear at the courthouse later in the day.

During the questioning, the assistant district attorney asked before them the transcript of evidence before the Finance Commission in the probe of the land transaction, and a batch of account sheets.

It was admitted that the district attorney's probe had already gone further than that of the Finance Commission in regard to certain details of the deal which the commission reported to be "permeated with fraud."

Act Friday in Exchange Loan

The City Council's committee on finance will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. to discuss matters now before that committee and it is understood that these included the loan order for $350,000 to complete the Exchange st. widening. The other pending matters are the $100,000 loan order for new underpinning for the steps of the Public Library in Copley sq., the $95,000 loan order for the newly created Boston traffic commission to function during the remaining months of the year, and the $200,000 loan order for Boston airport.

Mayor Nichols' loan orders for $500,000 for Exchange st. was rejected by the council at the last meeting after the committee on finance reported "ought not to pass." A new loan order in the sum of $350,000 was submitted by Motley, and it is the latter order that will be taken up at Friday afternoon's session.

LEGISLATIVE HONOR ROLL

REP. WILLIAM H. McCARTHY of Rockland, one of the best-known members of the House of Representatives, is opposed to the power trust and a firm believer in the virtues of the municipal lighting bill Representative McCarthy is 45 years old. He is a member of the Rockland Commercial Club the Rockland Retail Merchants' Association, the Wampatuck Club of Brockton, the Brockton Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. He represents the Fourth Plymouth district, including Rockland, Hanover and Hanson.

FORESTERS IN DEADLOCK ON ELECTION

Despite the casting of numerous ballots and the withdrawal of two candidates, a deadlock developed today in the contest for high outside sentinel at the 50th anniversary celebration of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters at Hotel Statler.

On the first ballot Francis H. Hennigan of Brighton received 382 votes; William J. Barry of Roxbury, 362; John H. O'Connor of Somerville, 158, and Thomas F. Flannigan of Neponset.

Ten blanks were also cast, and as 446 votes are necessary to elect there was no contest. Following a conference Flannigan and O'Connor withdrew, and another ballot was taken in which 804 votes were cast.

Hannigan received 398 and Barry 390, so the matter was turned back to the committee for a recount. John P. Higgins of Fenwick court, Watertown, was elected trustee over John J. Lynch of Bunker Hill court, by 490 to 383.

PETITION MAYOR

The committee on petitions, headed by Mary A. Costello, submitted a petition which was approved, calling on Mayor Nichols to request the historical site committee to erect a tablet at 44 School st., where the first Catholic church stood in Boston.

Another petition, which was referred to the next convention, asked the M. C. O. F. to withdraw its moral and financial support from any corporation or business interest which inquired a man's religion before hiring him.

On motion of Catherine A. Fitzgerald of Springfield it was decided to install High Chief Ranger James A. Donovan of Springfield, who was given an ovation. He was presented with a bouquet of cut flowers by James Leahy of Springfield. James H. Benson of Springfield, past high chief ranger, was the installing officer. Leahy was marshal and was assisted by Mrs. Helena M. Galvin.

The convention adopted a resolution of sympathy for the family of Past High Ranger John J. Collins of Springfield, and passed a memorial for Rev. James H. O'Neil, who died July 31, 1928, after being high court chaplain for many years. It was also decided to decorate the two graves.

PICNIC SCHEDULED

A picnic at Nantasket had been scheduled for the 200 delegates, but the deadlock in the voting for high outside sentinel held it up.

The other officers of the high standing committee were unopposed. These included High Chief Ranger James A. Donovan of Springfield, High Vice Chief Ranger Joseph P. McCabe of Atlantic, High Secretary-Treasurer Joseph J. Forrester of Boston, who was re-elected; High Senior Conductor Joseph A. Callahan of Boston, High Junior Conductor Mrs. Helena M. Galvin of Dorchester, High Inside Sentinel Ralph Smith of Charlestown, High Court Trustee James H. Benson of Springfield, elected to the board of high court trustees for a term of two years.

Jobless Father Tries Suicide

John Zuikas, 41, father of three children, of 73 Webster ave., Cambridge, was taken to the Cambridge City Hospital suffering from poisoning, self-administered. Patrolman Robert Mullen of the East Cambridge station gave first-aid treatment to the poison victim en route to the hospital in the police ambulance. Zuikas will recover.

200 FINANCE AGENTS IN 1ST CONVENTION

More than 200 agents and brokers of the Insurance Finance Corporation of 100 Milk st. held their first annual convention today at the Elks Hotel.

Speeches and a luncheon enlivened the gathering, the principal address being given by Harry Cuterman, president of the corporation.

Other speakers were E. J. Miller, vice-president; M. A. Krepp, general manager of the Hudson Casualty Company of New Jersey; P. R. Wilbur, vice-president of the Hudson Company; M. A. Conner, general claim manager of the New Amsterdam Casualty Company of Baltimore, and R. S. Parker, local sales manager; Hugh Campbell of Simpson & Campbell, Boston, and Donald Falvey, manager of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company.

J. J. Walsh was chairman of the committee which made arrangements for the meeting.

Cash prizes totalling $1000 were awarded to the salesmen whose production records were above the average. Four of the leading salesmen were also presented with autographed baseballs during the afternoon.

Bergen Police to Cover "Sky Beat"

Teterboro Airport, N. J., May 23 —The Bergen County police—the first police air squad to be formed in the United States—is in service today.

The aerial police will inspect all planes taking off from this airport to see that the engines are in good condition and the cabins not overloaded. They also will patrol the skies and force down any pilots flying too low or otherwise violating regulations of the Department of Commerce.

EX-HUSBAND OF MRS. FOGARTY PLANS ACTION

New York, May 23—A $1,000,000 suit against Gene Tunney for alienation of the affections of Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty is being contemplated by James S. Fogarty, divorced husband of the woman who has already sued the former heavyweight champion of the world for $500,000 breach of promise, the New York American learned exclusively today.

This valuation has been placed by Fogarty upon the affections of his former wife in his consultations with both New York and Chicago attorneys, it was understood, despite the fact that the Fogartys were separated at the time Gene met the pretty divorcee.

Information as to when Fogarty plans to take any definite legal steps could not be obtained. At the plumbing supply house in Ft. Worth, Tex., where he was until recently employed as a traveling salesman, it was said that Fogarty has left the Texas city and now resides in Chicago.

Papers in Mrs. Fogarty's $500,000 heart balm action against Tunney, whom she charges with breaking his promises and her heart by his recent marriage to the former Polly Lauder, heiress to the Carnegie millions, were filed in the Superior Court of Fairfield County at Bridgeport, Ct., yesterday.

Before this action was brought in Connecticut, Mrs. Fogarty revealed to friends she had planned action in New Jersey.

She also disclosed to these friends that Fogarty was very angry over the way Gene treated her. She was divorced from Fogarty in May of 1925, five days before she charges Gene with proposing, but she told friends:

"Jack Fogarty can lick Gene Tunney any time."

Tunney Never Heard of "Any Mrs. Fogarty"

Brioni, Italy, May 23—"I do not recall meeting any woman named Fogarty."

That was the answer given today by Gene Tunney when asked to comment on the breach of promise suit filed against him by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty.

He added: "I have not heard a word about the suit officially and, frankly, I am not at all concerned about it at this time."

Charge Concord Man Stole Auto

Concord, N. H. May 23—Wilfred Ouellette of Concord Heights was arraigned in municipal court charged with stealing an automobile, pleaded not guilty, and in default of $1000 bail went to jail to await action by the October grand jury of the superior court. It is alleged that Ouellette, while operating the automobile, ran into another car. Information given the police, while investigating this accident, led to the larceny charge being brought.

MICHAEL STRANGE IS WED

The noted poet and author, former wife of John Barrymore, who prefers to be known by her "pen name," has wed Harrison Tweed, New York lawyer. The marriage took place in London.

BARRYMORE'S EX-WIFE WEDS

London, May 23 (AP)—Michael Strange, former wife of John Barrymore, was married to Harrison Tweed, New York lawyer, today.

The former Mrs. Barrymore, who prefers her pen name, Michael Strange, obtained a divorce from the actor last summer in New York state.

Several months after the divorce became permanent Barrymore married Dolores Costello.

$100 Dog Is Worth $5100 Since He Ate Diamonds

Chicago, May 23 (INS)—Yesterday Stubbie, Boston bull pup, owned by Mrs. David L. Barnes, Jr., was worth, perhaps, $100.

Today the dog was worth $5100, based on the following calculations:

One dog, Stubbie, $100.
One platinum, diamond ring, $3000.
One small diamond brooch, $2000.
Total, $5100.

Stubbie, romping into his mistress' bedroom today, playfully seized a scarf on which the ring and brooch laid. When Mrs. Barsaloux entered she found the animal had swallowed the jewels.

MALDEN BOY IS ORDAINED

The Rev. Cornelius E. Murphy, native of Malden and a graduate of Holy Cross College in 1917, was ordained to the priesthood today in the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Raleigh, N. C.

Bishop William J. Hafey, head of the North Carolina diocese, conducted the ordination service, which was attended by many members of the Rev. Murphy's family. Following his service in the Navy during the war, Fr. Murphy entered St. Mary's Seminary in Maryland, where he received his A. M. degree.

His first mass will be celebrated in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Malden, on June 2.

MILTON WOMAN DROPS DEAD

Mrs. William S. Fallon, 57, wife of Milton's first automobile policeman, dropped dead from heart trouble today in her home, 159 Warren ave., East Milton.

Patrolman Fallon, oldest officer on the Milton force, was the terror of motor speeders scorching through Milton in their "red devils" more than a quarter century ago.

He was a familiar figure in those days in his little "steamer," which could outdistance almost any gasoline car then on the road.

Three employes of the corporation were also at the State House ready to testify.

O'Connor Says Ship Boom Due

Washington, May 23 (AP)—Chairman O'Connor of the United States Shipping Board, estimates that "in the next year there will be more tonnage under construction in American shipyards than at any time since the war period."

Many of the vessels, he says, will be of sizes, types and speeds undertaken on this side of the Atlantic only recently.

SAYS AMERICAN HUSBANDS ARE HENPECKED

Vienna, May 23 (INS)—The "World League for the Rights of Men," which was organized to combat the encroachments of women, is seeking an American "he-man" courageous enough to accept the honorary chairmanship of the first international congress of the organization in vienna.

Herr Sigurd Hoeberl von Schwarzthal of Vienna, acting president of the league, is having much difficulty in finding an American of prestige who will preside at this meeting of "downtrodden males."

"I feel sorry for the men of the United States," Herr von Schwarzthal told International News Service. "We have many supporters in the United States, but it seems that American men are too timid where women are concerned. They are all henpecked.

"All American members of the league request me not to publish their names. None of them wishes to be willing to head our movement for the emancipation of men. Even Charlie Chaplin, who was quite enthusiastic about our cause, deserted us since he married again.

"Though I have not abandoned hope of finding a worthy American chairman, I fear that Americans will not be represented at the International Congress as they ought to be, considering the fact that the tyranny of women in the United States is worse than in Europe."

FORMER BOSTON WIFE OF KING DIES AT 93

The Countess of Edla, native of Boston and former American opera singer who became the wife of Dom Fernando, one-time king of Portugal, is dead in London at the age of 93 years. She had lived in retirement since her husband's death over 40 years ago.

As Elsie Hensler, she first studied in Springfield under Signor Guidi, who had heard the leading European singers and was thrilled with the girl's ability. Returning to Boston, she was o pupil of Carelli and a member of the Paris St. Church choir.

STUDIED IN FRANCE.

After studying for two years in France and Italy, Miss Hensler made a successful debut at La Scala in Milan. She then returned to New York, where she made her debut in the Academy of Music. In January, 1885, she went to the famous old Boston Theater, playing the title role in the opera, "Linda di Chamounix." The young singer was hailed as a great artist. Later she returned to Europe, going to the Royal Opera House in Lisbon.

By a coincidence, Miss Hensler opened her engagement in Portugal on October 29, the birthday of Dom Fernando, former king consort and former regent, who was in the royal box. Dom Fernando was a German born prince.

MEETS THE KING

He married Maria II de Gloria, Queen of Portugal, and a year later received the title of king. When the queen died in 1853, the king was named Regent for his son.

Dom Fernando was freed of many of the conventional restraints of royalty, and fell in love with the beautiful young singer during her at their first meeting at the opera.

They lived happily together for a quarter of a century until Fernando's death in 1885. From that time on the countess lived in seclusion at her private palace in Lisbon. The counese had a sister two years younger than herself, Mrs. R. D. Slade of Center Harbor, N. H., with whom she corresponded for many years.

$125 ALIMONY ON $25 WAGE?

Providence, May 23—Replying to his divorced wife's plea for $125 a week alimony, George Everett Boyden, 26, testified today he has never earned more than $25 a week, although he admitted buying eight automobiles in less than five years.

Boyden in superior court made an offer of $15 to $18 a week for the support of his wife and child, despite the fact that he has been paying $80 a week temporary alimony since the divorce.

It developed that the family lived in affluent style because Boyden's wealthy father and grandfather paid the bills. Boyden said he had no idea what it was costing him to live, but his wife testified the family's expenses before the divorce averaged $288 a week.

SEIZURE IS SEEN AS ADVERTISING FOR BOOKS

"You might as well bar the Bible as bar Candide," Prof. James Geddes, chairman of the department of romance languages at Boston University and the man who ordered 12 of the 13 copies which were seized by government orders, declared today.

He said there is no reason to proscribe Candide, and "there seems to be a movement among censors to do this sort of thing. We are growing more like pre-war Germany every day."

Prof. Geddes added that the books he ordered all were printed in French, and pointed out that the Treasury Department ruling barring Candide an improper does not really matter, as it also is published in this country.

An important development in the controversy was the statement by Assistant Collector of the Port Eli Ferry that he was forwarding a copy of the seized books to Washington in order to get a second ruling, apparently to left the ban.

In the meantime officials of the Boston Public Library and the Widener Library at Harvard said they would continue to keep the book on their shelves, as did representative booksellers.

"I ordered 12 of the 13 copies later seized," said Professor Geddes, "and I received a letter from Washington announcing the book had been banned. I also received a letter from the customs authorities in Boston informing me the books had been seized.

"We have used Candide in our classes here for 20 years and never found anything unethical about them.

Prof. J. B. Ford of the modern romance language department of Harvard said he was contemplating no action in the case, believing the publicity it had received will right "the stupid affair." He added it would result in the added sale of the book.

"They will print 10 times as many copies in the next year as ever before," said Prof. Ford.

Prof. Andre Morize, French professor at Harvard, who denounced the ruling which it was first made public, could not be reached, but his office said he concurred with Prof. Ford's view. Harvard is to take no action as far as could be learned.

"It is news to me that 'Candide' is improper," said a official of the Boston Public Library. "We have always had it and it has been circulated. It has never occurred to us that it should be restricted.

"We have numerous copies in the library, and all have a star against them, indicating they may be circulated by way of a department to responsible persons. Of course they would not be given to children.

TETRAZZINI IN SOLITUDE FOR LOST LOVE

Rome, May 23 (INS)—Her "love dream" shattered, Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, who at one time was declared the finest coloratura soprano living, barricaded herself in her apartment today.

She made it known she wished to have nothing to say about the decree which granted her a legal separation from her husband, Pietro Vernati, almost 40 years her junior.

Vernati, who for two years and a half knew the thrill of fame as the youthful half of this May-December marriage, went back to work in his father's shirtmaking shop in the Via Nazionale.

"Luisa and myself," Vernati said, "agreed to say nothing of our private affairs."

SEE HOSPITALS HERE MENACED BY X-RAY FILMS

To preclude the possibility of a recurrence of the Cleveland Clinic disaster, in which 128 lives were snuffed out by fumes of poison gases released by the igniting of inflammable X-ray films, the board of registration in medicine is preparing a petition to the Legislature seeking to license hospitals and to provide regulations for their operation which would include safety methods of storing and use of the films.

Dr. C. P. Sylvester, president of the Massachusetts Society of Examining Physicians, at the annual meeting of the organization, told of the proposal of the board of registration and of the general use of the inflammable X-ray film in public and private hospitals and laboratories in this State.

"Could a similar tragedy occur right here in Massachusetts?" Dr. Sylvester asked, giving his own opinion that it is possible.

"Inflammable X-ray films are being used here in public institutions and private laboratories. They are 20 per cent cheaper in cost than the so-called non-inflammable type. This cost is an important item to hospital superintendents and private laboratories, he said.

He then said the board of registration in medicine had during this week asked the co-operation of the state department of public welfare and public safety urging that they direct an inquiry to the various police chiefs and hospital superintendents throughout the State as to where such inflammable films are stored and are being used. A checkup through sales agencies of inflammable film is being made for similar information, he said.

The joint rules committee of the Legislature is expected to pass on an order introduced by Rep. Thomas H. Carr of Jamaica Plain, providing for investigation of the use of motion picture and X-ray film, particularly with reference to whether it is advisable in the interests of public safety to prohibit the use of all but the non-inflammable type.

QUITS CELL FOR STAGE

DOROTHY MACKAYE

Sacramento Cal., May 23—Dorothy MacKaye, after nearly a year in San Quentin prison has hit the comeback trail to the footlights.

And next Monday evening, when the curtain goes up at the Plaza Theater here, Dorothy will return to character in an attempt to re-win her old popularity.

There's much of wine, women and song in "The Dove," but offstage that's all behind her, Miss MacKaye declares, part of a past she wants to forget along with those months spent behind the gray walls of San Quentin.

She was released after serving ten months of an indeterminate sentence for withholding information concerning the death of her husband, Ray Raymond, killed in a flat fight with Paul Kelly.

HANKEN BEARS DOWN ON HINES

Disturbed by "ugly rumors" regarding the transfers of the business manager and the chief dietitian at the Veterans' Bureau Hospital at Rutland, Joseph H. Hanken, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has sent a telegram to Gen. Hines declaring that he was "not satisfied" with the general's explanations.

In the telegram Commander Hanken said:

"Not satisfied with your reasons for delay in the Rutland case. Will you allow me the privilege of examining the reports of Dr. L. Vernon Briggs and the two agents sent to investigate at the hospital. Ugly rumors circulating in this city and I want to get to the bottom of the matter to protect all concerned, particularly the patients. If the business manager and chief dietitian was removed because of adverse reports, they should be removed from the service, we feel."

Commander Hanken received a letter from Gen. Hines in which the latter said that M. E. Head, co-ordinator of this district, who was to meet Commander Hanken to talk over the Rutland situation, will be delayed a week. Earlier Commander Hanken had received a telegram and Gen. Hines referred to this by saying that he hoped it would clarify the situation and "you need have no fear that the present good morale of the patients will be endangered."

SUPREME COURT HEARS TRIPPI ARGUMENTS

The full bench of the Supreme Court today heard the arguments of counsel for Charles Trippi, Jr., 22, of Worcester, who was found guilty of killing Frederick Pfluger, a guard at the Charlestown State Prison, during his attempt to escape last November.

Michael H. Shanley, Trippi's attorney, told the court Judge Gray of the Superior Court, who sat on the case, had erred in barring the testimony of Dr. L. Vernon Briggs as to the mental age of the convict.

He also claimed the court had been in error in refusing to rule that in determining premeditated malice the jury should consider the probable result of such an act in connection with the plan to escape. His third claim was that Judge Gray had refused to rule that if the jury found that prior to the shooting Trippi had abandoned his attempt to flee the prison he was justified in defending himself, even to the extent of taking Pfluger's life.

Frederick T. Doyle, assistant district attorney, argued the case for the government. He said the medical testimony was excluded because no evidence was offered on Trippi's sanity. He said Judge Gray had given full instruction on premeditation, malice and deliberation, and declared no evidence was introduced to show Trippi had at any time abandoned his attempt to escape.

C. P. GRAVES, 60, BANKER, IS DEAD

An illness of nine years with chronic rheumatism ended today with the death of Carlton P. Graves, former Cambridge banker, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Guin G. Plummer, West Emerson st., Melrose.

He was 60 years old, was a native of Canada and was associated with the Central Trust Co. of Cambridge for years.

Services will be held Saturday from the Melrose address with Dean Sturgis of St. Paul's Cathedral, officiating. Burial will be in New Boston, N. H., Cemetery.

Child Run Down by Auto in Lawrence

Lawrence, May 23—One little girl sustained slight injuries and two more escaped unhurt in an automobile accident at Howard and Alston sts. last night.

Fred Barret of Bennington st., operator of the automobile, reported to police that he was turning into Howard at the Alston at the same time the street car was making the swing. Three children rounded the back of the car and stepped directly into the pathway of his automobile.

SECRET SENATE SESSIONS MAY BE ABOLISHED

Washington, May 23 (INS)—Abolition of the ancient custom of holding secret sessions of the Senate to consider presidential nominations seemed probable today as the warfare between senatorial groups boiled merrily on.

A poll disclosed that a majority of senators favor throwing all sessions of the Senate open to the public, except in comparatively rare instances where the foreign relations of the United States might be embarrassed by public discussion.

Meanwhile, as the controversy raged, all newspaper correspondents were barried from the Senate floor today as a direct outgrowth of the publication of the Senate's rollcall on the nomination of Irvine L. Lenroot. The Senate found itself in the somewhat ridiculous position of disciplining newspaper reporters for printing what members of the Senate told them about the Lenroot vote.

The Senate will go through the motions of endeavoring to learn the identity of the senators who violated what went on behind the closed doors of the Senate chamber, but everyone on Capitol Hill today predicted it would come to nothing.

The rules provide that a senator may be expelled for revealing the secrets of an executive session.

Seek Hub Kin of Man Found in River

Pittsfield, May 23—Dr. Franklin C. Downing, of Stockbridge, is trying to find William Barry of Boston, whose father, Garrett Barry, was found drowned in the Housatonic River at Stockbridge Monday. There is a brother also thought living in Boston.

Dr. Downing located an insurance policy at the Barry home in which the son William is named beneficiary. Funeral arrangements are pending some word from relatives.

Englishmen Have 'It', Elinor Glyn Finds

London, May 23 (INS)—English women have "it"—but Englishmen possess "it" even more strongly than the womenfolk, according to the highest authority and originator of the term "it" to describe personal magnetism—Elinor Glyn, who has returned to London after two years in the United States.

"It," that mysterious quality of personal magnetism for which every woman sighs, is found more frequently in Englishmen than in any other race in the world," declared Mrs. Glyn.

"Englishmen are not self-conscious. Self-consciousness and 'it' cannot exist together. As soon as you think you have 'it' you have not got it.

"Englishmen, as a nation, solemnly believe in their heart of hearts they are superior to women and to all other living creatures; and women, in their heart of hearts, believe it, too."

Comparing the possession of "it" between American and English women, Mrs. Glyn said:

"English women? Well, four girls in every thousand may have 'it,' and even this small proportion is larger than that of America, where, perhaps, one 'it' girl can be found in every thousand.

"They have to fight the disadvantages of the English climate, while American girls have the climate on their side. American women are the most beautiful women in the world, and they have the kindest hearts in the world, too. They are regarded by their men folks as angels straight out of heaven. They have a wonderful time in their rich, woman-worshipping country."

ZEPP READY TO RETURN HOME LATE TODAY

By SIE HUBERT WILKINS

Famous explorer, who will be a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin in its flight from the Csere-Pierrefeu air harbor to Friedrichshafen, and on its second transatlantic flight.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, Mexico, South America and Continental Europe, except Germany. All rights reserved, and reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Toulon, France, May 23 (By Cable)—Four of the Graf Zeppelin's motor gondolas are now occupied by four sound engines, including the one which brought us to Cuers. The stern 'nacelle' is empty.

The new engines were run at low speeds in the hangar yesterday, and appear to be in perfect condition. Two thousand four hundred cubic feet of gas was forced into the cells, and 1000 pounds of water ballast loaded aboard the Graf.

Meteorological conditions will control the departure of the airliner for Friedrichshafen today, and the weather over the Rhone Valley yesterday augured well for the start.

The crew and passengers were told to be ready to start at any hour.

Because there is not sufficient meteorological data available to forecast accurately the air movements, it is difficult for pilots to announce the times of their departures previous to their start, and conditions here warrant a better meteorological organization.

FIND SKELETON WAS 20 YEARS IN PIT

Sterling, May 23—The skeleton found in a gravel pit on the farm of Murray Trussell in West Sterling is that of a woman who was under 30 at the time of her death, probably 20 years ago.

This was declared today by Dr. James J. Goodwin of Clinton after the bones found had been assembled into the complete framework.

As a result of the strange find, Police Chief McDonald Lynch is checking up on all the missing women in this vicinity in the last two decades in the hope of clearing up the mystery.

The skeleton was unearthed by a laborer's shovel at a depth of about two feet in the pit. The men were engaged in getting out road material. At first the bones were believed to be those of two horses buried near by several years ago.

Seek Way to Help Oil Industry

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The federal oil conservation board and officials of the American Petroleum Institute held an informal meeting today to discuss the possibility of solving the problem of waste and overproduction in the oil industry by means of an interstate compact limiting drilling, but it was announced later that no conclusions had been drawn and no decisions reached.

FRENCH MOVE TO CUT U. S. WAR DEBTS

Paris, May 23 (AP)—The Socialist group of the chamber, meeting just before the opening of Parliament, adopted a resolution asking the government to propose to the American government, in concert with other debtors of America, that all reductions on the allied demands at the reparations conference be merged with a reduction of war debts to the United States.

The resolution expresses regret that the Poincare cabinet had left to the French experts liberty to accept a compromise with the Germans which reduces "the money due France and Belgium for reconstruction of the liberated region."

The group also adopted a resolution declaring itself ready to support all efforts of the United States toward general disarmament.

French political circles looked for ratification by Parliament of the Melton-Berenger debt accord of 1926, which provided for a system of deferred payments of France's debts to the United States.

Unless the debt accord is ratified, France must pay the United States $400,000,000 in August on account of the surplus war stocks purchased after the war. Should the debt accord be ratified this sum would be merged with its total and under the deferred payment arrangement this year's payment would be only $32,500,000.

WOULD DIVORCE NO. 2 TO REWED FREED EX-MATE

New York, May 23 (AP)—After having spent five years in jail during which time he lost many pounds and his wife divorced him, Harry L. Hoffman, Staten Island motion picture operator, was freed today, acquitted in his fourth trial for a murder committed in 1924.

He was accused of slaying Mrs. Maude C. Bauer, attractive mother of two children, whose body, with two bullet holes in it, was found along a Staten Island road. She was believed to have been slain by a man who gave her a lift in his automobile when her own car broke down.

Once a stocky man of 195 pounds, Hoffman wept as the jury in Brooklyn Supreme Court brought in its verdict. He was greeted by his former wife, Mrs. Agnes Keating Hoffman-Rankin, and his 13-year-old daughter.

His former wife expressed her joy at his acquittal and said they would remarry if she could obtain a divorce. She said she had not seen her present husband for three and one-half years.

The evidence against Hoffman was circumstantial as there were no witnesses to the murder.

At his first trial he was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to serve from 20 years to life in prison. Hoffman had steadily maintained his innocence.

FROST STRIKES WESTERN PART OF THE STATE

Springfield, May 23 (AP)—Temperatures at or below the freezing point were reported in several places near here early today. Brimfield, which consistently holds the low temperature record hereabouts, reported 24 degrees. Warren reported 32 degrees, while Southwick, west of this city, had 29 degrees.

Not in many years has such a degree of cold been reported so late in the season.

Norway, Me., May 23 (AP)—A lots May frost placed a covering of white over Oxford County today. The frost on the roofs of buildings and the meadows made a repeat there had been a snowfall.

No damage was expected, as the frost was too close to the ground to affect fruit trees which are budding and gardens have not yet broken through the ground.

ONE MURPHY IN COURT AND ONE IN HOSPITAL

A flat tire at the wrong time and in the wrong place brought grief to the Murphy brothers of East st., Dedham, one of whom is in a hospital and the other in the clutches of the law on a charge of transporting 100 gallons of liquor.

James H. and Francis J. Murphy, the men involved, pulled up in a Dedham gasoline station to repair the "flat" and were soon engaged in desultory conversation concerning auto troubles in general with three federal dry sleuths on official patrol.

One of the government agents became suspicious of a large package in the rear of the Murphy sedan, and when the tire had been repaired conveyed his "hunch" to his fellow sleuths.

James climbed in behind the wheel, Francis took his seat beside him, and just as the machine was beginning to get under way a federal agent jumped on the running board and placed Francis under arrest.

James made a hasty exit on the other side, ran around the gasoline station and fell into a deep oiling pit in an attempt to escape.

Two of his pursuers lifted him out of the pit, carried him in their own machine to the Dedham police station, where his injuries were diagnosed as a fractured left leg and his removal to a hospital ordered.

APPROVE LIGHT PLANT SALE

Sale of the Concord municipal lighting plant to the Boston Edison Company for $800,000 is recommended by the town finance committee in its general report prepared for special town meeting, to be held next Monday evening in the armory.

The finance committee asserts that it has studied the report of the special municipal lighting committee and finds that the proposal for purchase of current by the town presents no attractive features.

"The choice lies between continuing the operation of the Concord lighting plant or accepting the proposal of the Edison company to purchase the plant for $800,000," the finance committee continues.

"After further consideration of these alternatives, we strongly recommend that the offer of the Edison company be accepted."

Sound Death Knell for Morning Dress

London, May 23—The death-knell is being sounded in England for morning dress attire. Before long it will be relegated with such antiques as the Prince Albert and the stock tie.

On occasions even members of the Royal family have been seen at semi-formal and formal affairs in ordinary lounge or business suits. This is fast having an effect on the general public.

Fitchburg Police Officer Resigns

ACCUSE 2 MORE FILM STARS IN TAX FRAUD

Los Angeles, May 23 (AP)—The names of Eleanor Boardman, motion picture actress, and King Vidor, her husband, who is a director, were added today to the growing list of Hollywood personages accused by the government of evading their income tax obligations.

A Federal grand jury returned an indictment against the actress charging her with evading income tax payments during 1925, 1926 and 1927. At the same time an information was filed in Federal court accusing Vidor of similar evasions in 1925 and 1926.

The indictment against Miss Boardman charged that for the years 1926 and 1927 she prepared her own returns and paid taxes of $1522.76 and $989.44 on incomes of $32,177.59 and $46,016.31 for 1926 and 1927 respectively. The government charged that the tax paid represented only one-fourth to one-half the amount actually due.

Vidor's income for 1925 was figured by the government at $141,124.59 and $88,360 for 1926. For the respective years he paid taxes of $2222 and $866.34. The federal information alleged that the tax paid represented only 25 to 50 per cent of the amounts due.

Miss Boardman's income for 1925 as set forth in the indictment was $41,926.72.

KOUSSEVITZKY IN PARIS; LAUDS U. S.

Paris, May 23 (AP)—Serge Koussevitzky, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who is here to direct five presentations of the opera "Boris Goudenof," believes America has the most intense musical development of any country in the world and leads in appreciation of good music.

"A phenomenal musical renaissance is in progress in the United States," said Mr. Koussevitzky. "Americans have stimulated orchestral advancement, just as they have created immense business enterprises."

Koussevitzky said American composers "no longer find jazz a suitable medium."

YOUNG EDISON SEES PASSING OF HUMAN ROBOTS

(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)

West Orange, N. J., May 23—"I think automatic machines will replace more and more unskilled workers in the factories of America as time goes on. The machine age in industry has hardly started."

Charles Edison, 35-year-old president of the Thomas A. Edison industries, and son of the world-famed inventor, made this assertion in an interview here today.

"In my opinion, the time is coming when one highly-skilled man will do the work that is now being performed by half a dozen 'human robots,'" he added. "This will bring about increased production at a lower cost, help business and raise the standards and provide better opportunities for the American workingman.

"We are now seeing the day of the semi-automatic labor-saving machine. These machines are all right as far as they go, but they do not go far enough. They were designed to increase production and bring the cost of labor down.

"What they have done is to provide a vast army of men with jobs that require absolutely no thinking on their part. They are robots. They simply go through the motions of feeding the machines they man.

"This development of the non-thinking employe has brought about a distinctly bad social problem. We have too many non-thinkers making motions with their hands before machines."

JERITZA HURT AS LADDER FALLS

Budapest, May 23 (INS)—Mme. Maria Jeritza, beautiful prima donna, who is well known in America, is suffering from bruises today as the result of an accident last night while playing her role in "The Girl of the Golden West." A ladder upon which she was standing collapsed. She continued the performance. The attending doctor said her injuries were not serious.

ADMITS LIE IN $250,000 SUIT FILED BY GIRL

Painesville, O., May 23 (AP)—Five witnesses have thus far testified in connection with the $250,000 damage suit filed here in behalf of Helen Buschmann of Westfield, Mass., against the Great Lakes Stage Co. Miss Buschmann, a student at Lake Erie College, was injured on January 15, 1928, in a bus accident. She was in a semi-conscious condition for six months.

Clyde Crawford of Euclid, former Painesville policeman, who was a passenger on the bus, admitted he had made a false statement in order to shield the bus driver at the time of the accident. He testified the bus was traveling at 35 miles an hour when it struck Miss Buschmann and that it rolled 110 feet after the accident.

Miss Buschmann was not in court. Her attorneys said she might attend the trial late today, but would be unable to take the stand.

DELAY ASKED FOR $100,000 SUIT

New York, May 23 (INS)—A petition was on file in the Supreme Court today asking that the $100,000 heart balm suit of Vera Brody, the former "Kitten" Leightner, ex-Follies dancer, against Jefferson W. Seligman, aged banker, be put over until next October.

One of Mr. Seligman's witnesses, it was argued, is in Europe and cannot be produced before that time. The suit was scheduled to come to trial this week.

Money Room Alarm Flurries Capitol

The accidental sounding of the burglar alarm in the office of the State treasurer at the State House shortly before 5 o'clock brought State police and State House guards on the run.

It was found that aan employe had turned the wrong key in the door of the controlling apparatus and unwittingly set off the alarm.

SCHOOLGIRL IN WATERTOWN WINS PRIZE

Washington, May 23 (AP)—President Hoover today awarded the Charles R. Walgren prize of $500 for the best essay on "The Life and Achievements of William Crawford Gorgas and Their Relation to Our Health" to Gertrude Carter Stockard, a student of the Home High School of Mountainburg, Ark.

The essay contest, conducted under the auspices of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, was nation-wide in its scope and was practicipated in by high school students of 34 states. The essays dealt with the career of the late Gen. Gorgas in combating malaria and yellow fever and its contribution toward the betterment of health conditions in the world.

A second prize of $150 was awarded to Marguerite Hastings, a student of the Watertown (Mass.) high school, while the essays of William Gammage of the Meridian (Miss.) high school, Alethea Whitney of the Hillsborough high school of Tampa, Fla., and Eleanor Gilbert of the Torrington (Ct.) high school were given honorable mention. Each State winner was given a prize of $25, and the authors of the best essays in local high schools were awarded a bronze Gorgas medallion.

State winners included Isabel Reilly of Augusta, Me.

ANOTHER OLD SOAK IN U. S.

Old Soak, a pet parrot belonging to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, is shown with Capt. F. E. Anderson of the S. S. President Wilson, who brought the bird from Manila to San Francisco, to be forwarded to his master at Washington. When Mr. Stimson was governor-general of the Philippines, he became greatly attached to Old Soak and recently requested that he be sent to him. (A.P. photo.)

New York, May 23—Capt. F. E. Anderson, skipper of the Dollar liner President Wilson, has sailed the seas, man and boy, for, well, for a long time, but he confessed he has learned a great deal about fo'c's'l' language from the "Old Soak."

The "Old Soak," a garrulous parrot, belonging to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, is en route from Manila to Washington, to rejoin Stimson, former Governor-General of the Philippines, although it is feared the old bird never will become a dipolmat.

On the President Wilson the "Old Soak" has been the personal guest of Capt. Anderson. The skipper believes the parrot could get on well with seafaring men, but expressed the conviction that envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary will steer clear of social contact with the "Old Soak."

INDICT FIVE IN 'CURE' FRAUD

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23 (AP)—What federal authorities called one of the largest "tuberculosis cure" swindles ever perpetrated in the West was brought to light here with the indictment of five persons on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Charles F. Aycock and Glen S. Jordan, named in indictments, were arrested and bond fixed at $10,000 and $5000, respectively. Telegraphic warrants for the arrest of Adolph Beyer, George T. Lester and Martin H. Lester were sent to the United States marshal at Denver, Col.

Postoffice inspectors said the "guaranteed cure" preparations exploited by the defendants had victimized more than 10,000 persons to the extent of about $1,000,000 over a period of several years.

Government chemists and medical experts were unanimous in the statement that the preparations sold by the alleged combine were worthless in treating tuberculosis.

Church to Insure Its Own Property

New York, May 23 (AP)—A fire insurance corporation organized by the Protestant Episcopal church to reduce the cost of policies on its church properties began operations today. It is the belief of the organizers that the fire insurance rate on churches should be lower than any other structure because "there is no moral hazard on a church."

The board of directors of the corporation includes J. P. Morgan.

Church Bars Use of Snuff by Ministers

Lancaster, Pa., May 23 (AP)—The use of tobacco or snuff by clergymen of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ has been prohibited by the General Conference of the Church.

A resolution providing for revocation of licenses of ministers found guilty of smoking, chewing tobacco or using snuff was adopted at the quadrennial conference sessions.

Gold Rush on in Old Australian Reef

Kalgoorlie, Western Australia, May 23 (AP)—A gold rush has begun in the neighborhood of the famous old Bulong Reef near here. Prospectors who bored for only three feet found hematite quartz and iron stone, indicating the presence of free gold.

MONEY PANIC IS SEEN BY BORAH

New York, May 23—In an editorial in the June issue of World's Work, Senator William E. Borah predicts a world-wide money panic unless loans being made to stock market speculators are curbed.

Senator Borah urges the Federal Reserve Board to abolish the daily settlement plan of the stock exchanges in this country and adopt the weekly or fortnightly system used in Europe.

Highest Court to Get N. Y. Budget Battle

Albany, N. Y., May 23 (INS)—Governor Roosevelt's legal battle with Republican leaders of the Legislature over the executive budget, today was taken before the Appellate Division, third department.

The future expenditure of millions of dollars of state funds is involved in the budget controversy.

Regardless of the decision of the Appellate Division, the case will be carried to the court of appeals, the state's highest tribunal, for final adjudication.

MORE M. P. SEATS LOOM FOR LABOR

London, May 23 (AP)—With polling day in the general elections only one week off, the feature of the stock exchange unofficial market in election majorities today was a jump of five points in Labor party "stock."

Liberal "stock" went up three points at the same time, while Conservative went down three. Quotations now give the Conservatives from 271 to 275 members in the next House, Labor from 241 to 245 and Liberals from 86 to 100.

New Rifle Club at Amesburg High

Amesbury, May 23—Male students of the Amesbury high school, with Principal Forrest Brown as its first president, have organized a rifle club and plan to compete in tournaments with other school rifle clubs in this part of the state.

The other officers chosen are: Kenneth Gove, vice-president; Lewis J. Maxwell, instructor; David Bourque, ex-officer; Clifford Bean, sergeant-at-arms; Kilby Marble, treasurer; Wilbur Cole, secretary.

H., May 23—At a meeting of the safety committee of the Portland division of the Boston & Maine Railroad at division headquarters, the committee received word from headquarters that the division had been awarded highest honors for having the best divisional safety record for the three months' period ending March 31, a bronze trophy.

Westboro Hat Shop Will Be Reopened

Westboro, May 23—Residents of Westboro are in high spirits over the announcement that the plant of the Westboro Hat Company, Milk st., practically idle for two years, is to reopen on full time. The plant was once one of the best known hat manufacturing headquarters in New England and contributed the major part of the town's payroll.

The George B. Burnett Co. of Amherst, which formerly conducted the business is to be the firm to reopen. About 250 hands will be employed.

Bernet Seeks Right to Head Three Roads

Washington, May 23 (AP)—J. J. Bernet of Cleveland, O., today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to become president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Hocking Valley and Pere Marquette railroads.

Application also was filed by W. J. Harahan of Richmond to become senior vice-president of the same roads.

In his application Bernet said he would resign as president of the Erie Railroad at a meeting tomorrow of the executive committee.

1929

Since clipper ships and whale oil lighting, in far-away 1812, the name "Jenney" has been associated with quality. Jenney has traveled a long road—117 years long—to the present age of gasoline; but at every milestone, Jenney has added hundreds and thousands of new friends.

Never-failing quality—day by day—year by year—that is the secret! Fill your tank with Jenney Gasoline, and start on the longest road. You can count on steady, dependable power every mile of the way.

If you have never experienced Jenney quality, stop at the next Jenney station and learn this famous "secret of the road."

Wherever you see a Jenney station, you will find the same friendly hospitality—the same roadside comforts—and the same pure, uniform quality gasoline.

JENNEY AERO GASOLINE

ITALY UNITED, SAYS IL DUCE

Rome, May 23 (AP)—An united Italy, with its masses joined in support of the governing regime, was envisaged by Premier Mussolini in a speech reviewing Italy's foreign policy before the Chamber of Deputies. The Chamber, after listening to Il Duce's remarks, adopted the budget for the foreign office, of which he is titular head.

"When a country is weak and disordered it can have no great foreign policy, the Italian dictator said. "The Italian people must be unified, the masses made compact, to be heard abroad.

"We may say with all assurance now that Italy is being heard and respected; we may add that through the Fascist regime Italy tomorrow will be still more respected and still more feared."

Do Your Dreaming at Night

Boys of the Boston American Lindbergh Club, don't be dreamers like the lad in the picture. Make it a reality. Write a slogan for Tom Mix and win that chance to join the circus for a day, or, at least, a free ticket to the circus.

Chelsea Boy Wins $100 for Flight Estimate

Emil A. Marma, 96 Chestnut st., Chelsea, a member of the Boston American Lindbergh Club, made the closest estimate of the maximum altitude reached by Russell N. Boardman in his altitude flight last Saturday afternoon over Boston Common.

Marma's estimate was 3800 feet and six inches. He wins the first cash award of $50, but being a member of the Boston American Lindbergh Club he will receive $100. Marma edged Billy W. McGown, 150 Blue Hill Parkway, Milton, out of the grand prize by just three inches. Billy's estimate was 3800 feet and three inches, and thus he wins the second cash award of $25. He is also a member of the Boston American Lindbergh Club and will receive $50.

Boardman, in his flight for altitude, did not attempt to break any record nor do any stunt flying. His flight was to instruct readers of the Boston Evening American and members of the Lindbergh Club in aviation and particularly in estimating altitude of a plane. This instruction was afforded in the full size Altitude Scale which was printed in last Saturday's Boston Evening American.

Boardman reached his maximum altitude at exactly 2:36 p. m. It was 3820 feet. This figure was recorded by a sealed barograph loaned by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and in charge of an assistant of the aeronautical department. His reading of the barograph for the time from 2:16 p. m. to 2:43 p. m. (Eastern Daylight Savings time) follows:

Time	Altitude
2:16 p. m.	0
2:19 p. m.	90
2:22 p. m.	1990
2:25 p. m.	1550
2:28 p. m.	2665
2:29 p. m.	2956
2:30 p. m.	3310
2:31 p. m.	3620
2:32 p. m.	3760
2:33 p. m.	3760
2:34 p. m.	3640
2:35 p. m.	3710
2:36 p. m.	3820
2:37 p. m.	3920
2:40 p. m.	380
2:43 p. m.	0

Estimates of 3800 feet were received from Miss U. M. Smarsh, 18 Leverett st., Boston; Herbert Strulovitz, 22 Hildreth st., Dorchester, and Marie Sherbuck, 72 Joy st., Boston.

In deciding the winner of the third cash award the judges selected Miss Smarsh. She will receive $15. This decision was determined by the judges on Miss Smarsh's answer to the question, "What Are the Possibilities of Aviation?" which appeared on the Estimate Form with instructions to each reader of the Boston Evening American to express an opinion in 25 or fewer words.

The judges ruled Marie Sherbuck's answer to the question as second best. Thus she will receive the fourth cash award of $10, but as she is a member of the Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club, she will receive $20.

Herbert Strulovitz's estimate and answer to the question was ruled as next best and he will receive one of the 25 awards of $1. He also is a member of the Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club and will receive $2.

The other 24 winners of cash awards and their estimates are:

Paul Barron, 35 Ventworth av., Dorchester, 3795 ft. 9 in., $2.
Miss H. M. O'Connor, matron, Boston Common, 3903 ft. 11 in., $1.
Thelma Rockwell, 33a Boylston st., Boston, 3841 ft., $2.
H. M. Hazen, 109 West st., South Weymouth, 3782 ft., $1.
Robert W. Marten, 501 E. Eighth st., South Boston, 3763 ft., $2.
Samuel Rine, 13 Calder st., Dorchester, 3750 ft., $1.
Jacob Lyons, 73 Douglas ave., Providence, R. I., 3700 ft. 10 in., $2.
Roy McGillvary, 26 Irving st., Everett, 3700 ft., $1.
Parker A. Coleman, 79 Holworthy st., Boston, 3701 ft. 8 in., $2.
Frank Hickey, 20 Prospect st., Brookline, 3690 ft., $2.
Lawrence G. Hayes, 10 Wheeler st., Somerville, 3677 ft. 9 in., $1.
Melvin M. Talbot, 120 Capen st., Dorchester, 3650 ft. 10 in., $2.
Thomas J. Kenney, 54 Burnside st., Medford, 3647 ft. 9 in., $2.
Charles Mariens, 691 Eighth st., So. Boston, 3637 ft., $1.
Donald Welch, 239 E st., So. Boston, 3575 ft. 10 in., $2.
Robert S. Stockwell, 19 Lovett pl., Lynn, 3573 ft. 9 in., $2.
Robert A. Calder, 45 Houghton st., Lynn, 3572 ft. 9 in., $1.
Mabel Owens, 55 Dane st., Somerville, 3560 ft. 9 in., $2.
R. F. Evans, 1173 Commonwealth ave., Allston, 3550 ft., $1.
Mabel Falkenstron, 529 Highland ave., Somerville, 3510 ft., $1.
Paul D. Cotter, 90 Wenham st., Forest Hills, 3509 ft., $2.

Thirteen winners of the 25 cash awards of $1 are members of the Boston American Lindbergh Club. They will receive $2 each.

All winners of the cash awards are asked to call at the office of the Boston American Lindbergh Club, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Room 203, at their earliest convenience, to receive their awards.

Tom Mix, the famous cowboy of the movies, who rejoins Sells-Floto circus next Monday in Boston at a salary of $15,000 a week, sent the following telegram to the Boston American Lindbergh Club from St. Louis, Mo., where he is en route to Boston:

"Tell boys and girls of Boston American Lindbergh Club I am pleased to have 500 of them as my guests at the circus in New England cities. Tell I do want a real good slogan to use in my advertising. I am glad the boy who writes the best one will be my pal in Boston."

Now, boys and girls, the Sells-Floto circus wants a slogan for Tom Mix. Can you write one? The boy who writes the best one will join the circus for a day and be a pal of Tom Mix as well as travel with the circus from Boston to Providence, living the life of a real "circus man." The management of Sells-Floto circus also will give 500 free tickets to the boys and girls who write the next best slogans. The first 25 best slogan writers will receive four tickets each; the next 25 best two tickets each, and the next 100 best one ticket each. Five boys and girls living in cities outside Boston where the Sells-Floto circus will show after leaving Boston will receive two tickets each for the best slogans.

All slogans must be in the office of the Boston American Lindbergh Club before noon Monday, May 27. Send your slogans to the Slogan Editor, Boston American Lindbergh Club, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

Pittsfield Ready for Catholic Women

Mrs. John J. Salmon

An exodus of Catholic Daughters of America on Saturday will lead to Pittsfield where the State Court of the national order will hold a two-day biennial convention program devoted to the interests and continued support of charitable, religious and welfare work.

With a State membership of 10,000 and a junior branch of Catholic girls from 12 to 18 years of age, the Massachusetts Court is a powerful influence and moulding machine for good and progress.

The delegates and members will attend 8 o'clock mass at St. Joseph's Church to be celebrated by Monsignor Conaty, chaplain of the local court.

Mrs. John J. Salmon of Cambridge is national director and Massachusetts State Regent. She is convalescing from a serious illness and in the event that her condition will not warrant her appearance at the convention, the Vice-State Regent, Miss Marianne J. Collins will preside.

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the banquet on Saturday night at the Hotel Wendell. Mrs. Jane Lombard, Grand Regent of Court Bishop Conaty of Pittsfield is chairman of the banquet and entertainment committee and will be the toastmistress.

This will be a brilliant event preceding the actual business session to follow.

The Catholic Daughters of America have received warm personal tributes from ecclesiastical leaders, including the blessing of Pope Pius XI, for their work.

During the last ten years, more than $2,000,000 has been spent for benevolent activities.

Local women on the committee of arrangements include Mss V. Morris, general chairman; Margaret R. Cahill, secretary-treasurer; Ellen McCarthy, Belmont; Mrs. Sarah Connor, Middleboro; Mrs. Alice McCauley, South Boston; Mrs. H. J. Kennedy, Lexington; Sue Rooney, Hyde Park; Mrs. Elizabeth McKenna, Cambridge; Mrs. Josephine Donnelly, Somerville; Mrs. Katherine O'Hara, South Boston; Mrs. Mary Crane, Lawrence; Mrs. Julia Carey, Brookline; Mrs. Louise D'Angelo, Boston; Mrs. Mary N. WOMAN ORGANIST'S CLUB

Earl Weidner, feature organist of a Boston theater, was the guest at the last luncheon of the Woman Organist's Club season, held at the Elk's Hotel under the direction of Miss Sallie Frise. Costume dances also contributed to the program and were executed by Miss Frances Aldrich, accompanied by Mrs. Mina del Castillo.

BOSTON LADIES FREE LOAN SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Boston Ladies' Free Loan Society was held at the Crawford st. synagogue, with the president, Mrs. P. Shapiro, presiding. Abraham Alpert, editor, Boston Jewish American, made the principal address.

He said in part:

"In America there is now the reversion to the old notion. Quite apart from the question of superiority and inferiority, America seeks the preservation of type. It is no longer the ideal which dominates, but the racial type. It may be natural, as all, old impulses, good and bad, are natural. But it is un-American in its primary sense. It is negation of the happy, distinguishing characteristics of America as such."

This group of women devote their proceeds for work in Tel-Aviv, Palestine, and continues their efforts toward this end.

LEAGUE OF NEIGHBORS

The League of Neighbors, East and West, luncheon conference was held at the Twentieth Century Club, 3 Joy st., with Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, chairman of the Greater Boston committee, presiding.

Devoted to a Three-Fold Movement, "Union of East and West through cultural unity; "League of Neighbors," through human unity; and "Fellowship of Faiths," through spiritual unity; this new group of which Charles Frederick Wells and Kedar Nath Das Gupta are the executives, hope to achieve a common meeting ground where people of all nations, races, religions, cultures, classes and conditions can meet and work together for the realization of peace and brotherhood.

Divorced entirely from politics or any political aspect pertinent to the identity of a country, the new movement strives only for understanding and appreciation of the best of God's children.

Representatives of every creed and dogma were present at the luncheon, and among them Professor Marshall L. Perrin of Boston University, world traveler, and member of the College of Liberal Arts faculty for years.

"I hope that will never come a time when there will be unity of churches," he said. "If the churches unite under one head there will result despotism worse than that of the Spanish Inquisition. Let us have different churches, different beliefs, different faiths, but let there be the much needed love of one another.

"In Christianity today we need tremendously to fill in the gaps between what we are and what we ought to be.

"Christianity has been with us for more than 2000 years, and still we don't know what it is all about. Christianity has a wonderful amount to learn from all these eastern religions in order to understand itself."

Mrs. Samuel W. McCall, Mrs. Arthur W. Moors and Miss Alice P. Tapley were in charge of the luncheon. Those of the Greater Boston committee include Prof. Francis G. Peabody, Miss Margaret Slattery, Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, and Stone Blackwell, Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams, Dr. James L. Barton, Rabbi Harry Levi, Pres. Ellen Fitz Pendleton and Mrs. Milton J. Rosenau.

FRIDAY MEETINGS
AMERICAN HOME MAKERS

The course in posture and relaxation which is being conducted by Miss Alida Byhouwer of Amsterdam, Holland, at the Boston home information center, under the auspices of the American Home Makers, will be held at 2:30 p. m. The lecturer is making a limited visit to this country to study American methods of physical culture. She has, however, a valuable contribution to make through her wide acquaintance with work on the Continent.

LIKE TO GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?

CLICQUOT CLUB Pale Dry comes in 16 oz. bottles. Real standard pint bottles.

Most "dry" ginger ales come in 12 oz. bottles. Those little bottles are not full pints. And they do not offer that famous aged flavor which makes Clicquot Club Pale Dry so delightful either alone or in a recipe drink.

It pays to read labels. If the label says "Clicquot Club Pale Dry" you can be sure you are getting the famous aged ginger ale. Full measure and full flavor too.

Magic in ageing

There is magic and witchery in this ageing process which Clicquot Club discovered.

Anyone can tell the difference! Un-aged ginger ale does not have the smooth, sunny flavor of Clicquot Club. The only way to imitate Clicquot Club is to make Clicquot. That means pure Jamaica ginger. Mellow syrups made from pure fruit juices. Water from deep rock springs. Double-charge carbonation. Patient ageing!

First the flavor elements are blended and aged. Then the bottled ginger ale is aged again! That brings the final perfection of flavor. And makes Clicquot Club more healthful too.

Clicquot Club Pale Dry comes in clean new bottles—and in every bottle 4 oz. more of fine ginger ale.

So, read the label. If it says "Clicquot Club Pale Dry" you are getting best quality. And ½ more in every bottle. That makes 48 oz. (equals 3 bottles) more in the convenient Party Package. At all dealers.

Taunton, May 23—Stephen Crowninshield, 30, the Taunton man who was "crowned" with overalls fruit by Betty Moran Crowinshield of New Jersey as he left a New York court after being freed on a charge of bigamy, faced another charge before Judge Frederick E. Austin in First Bristol District Court.

He was charged with desertion of his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Crowninshield and their two children, 4 and 3 years of age. The man, brought back to Taunton, entered a plea of guilty.

He was given a suspended sentence of three months in the House of Correction at New Bedford, placed on probation for two years and ordered to pay $5 a week for the support of his family, whom he has not lived with for two years.

HOWARD HEADS CASHIERS

John N. Howard of the Home National Bank of Brockton was elected president of the National Bank Cashiers' Association of Massachusetts at the annual meeting in the Parker House.

Other officers elected were: K. W. Shute, Cape Ann National Bank, Gloucester, first vice-president; D. Roilin Alvord, First National Bank, Greenfield, second vice-president; Joseph B. Ross, Wellesley National Bank, treasurer; Albert H. Barnett, Merchants National Bank, Salem, secretary; Edward S. Webber, Beverly National Bank, Ellery I. Amesbury Votes Police Station

Amesbury, May 23—At a special town meeting it was voted to build a new combined police station and courthouse at a cost of $40,000 on a site on School st. The new building will house the police department and the Second district court of Essex County. The space on the second floor of the town hall, to be vacated by the court, will be renovated for use as offices for town officials.

BLUES PLAN BIG PUSH IN ARMY WAR GAME

Wright Field, Dayton, O., May 23 (AP)—Troops of the first, second and third blue armies lay in position on a line 17 miles west of Columbus awaiting the "zero" hour in the United States army mimic warfare today, when they will begin their big push against the red defensive position on big Darby Creek.

200-MILE FRONT

The advance will be along a 200-mile front with 27 divisions in line. The Blue First Army will attack the southern front about 100 miles from the Ohio river north; the second army will be on its left flank and the third army will attack on the northern front of approximately 50 miles. They will be opposed by the Red first, second and third armies.

Contact with enemy patrols along the entire front was reported by Blue patrols and skirmishing of a minor character also was reported by several division command posts. Blue aviation inflicted some damage on the enemy and the Red aviation succeeded in scoring on the Blues in three instances.

AVIATORS ACTIVE

A communique issued by Blue aviation headquarters stated that 18 ships of the Blues attacked the Red bombardment airdrome at Bruston and the Red's observation airdrome near that town. Five Red bombers and nine Red observation ships were reported destroyed.

It was announced at army headquarters that Red aviators attacked bridges at Dayton and Piqua in Blue territory but that the damage had been repaired after several hours. The Blue third attack group lost nine ships when it was attacked at Deeds Field by a Red pursuit squadron.

AWARDING HEARST TROPHY

Bangor (Maine) high school rifle team being presented Hearst trophy as winners of the New England school marksmanship contest. Picture shows Capt. Crowley, Lieut. Alfred E. McKenney, regular army officer in charge of Bangor High School R. O. T. C. unit; Austin Miller, Charles Jacques, Jr., and Hearst representative.

Bangor, Me., May 23—In the presence of a large gathering of Bangor citizens the high school rifle team, third place winner in the national school rifle match for the William Randolph Hearst trophies, received its awards. The exercises were on Broadway Park and were preceded by a parade of the cadet regiment, headed by the school band, winner of the New England championship at Boston last Saturday.

At the park a dress parade was put on by the regiment, which was reviewed by Mayor John C. Wilson, Col. W. B. Burt, U. S. A., of Boston, of the First Corps Area, who represented the army at the presentation; Col. Small, U. S. A., and Col. Herbert Bowen, Bangor, commander of the newly organized artillery regiment of the Maine National Guard and a Yankee Division veteran.

Referring to the occasion which called himself and other military men to the park today, Col. Burt said that it was such trophies which encouraged young men to work with interest upon military matters and in that was to be found the safeguarding of the nation. It was an adequate work of preparedness, he said.

James W. Reardon, associate editor of the Boston Evening American, on behalf of Mr. Hearst, presented the award, a large shield of silver and bronze. It was a happy occasion for him, he said, as personally he had always taken a great interest in school cadets. He said he regarded it as one of the best forms of training for young men.

The trophy was received by Lieut. G. McKinnon, who said that the members of the team and the regiment, as a whole, extended to Mr. Hearst their thanks for his efforts to induce interest in rifle practice among the schools. Following the acceptance of the trophy Mr. Reardon pinned upon each of the five members of the rifle team the individual medals which were awarded them for their work. The members of the teams are: Capt. Harry Crowley, Capt. Georgs McKenney, Fleetwood McKeen, Charles Jacques, Jr., and Austin Miller.

JILTS GIRL OVER WEDDING DAY 'DOG LICENSE'

Frankfort, Ky., May 23 (AP)—A rural romance that didn't end happily has given the Kentucky Court of Appeals something to work on. The case is up before the learned justices on several angles, which have to do with breach of promise, dog licenses and Sabbath observance.

The best an ordinary layman can get out of the mass of briefs, petitions, etc., is this:

Miss Kenova Damron and Wayne Hall of Flemingsburg were engaged to be married Sunday, Feb. 17, 1929. Hall didn't show up for the wedding. Miss Damron felt injured to the extent of $13,750 and sued for it.

Hall says he doesn't owe her anything. He says a relative of Miss Damron was delegated to buy the license and bought a dog license instead of a marriage license, showing it around to other relatives and friends of the girl, thereby exposing him to great ridicule.

Moreover, he says, Sunday is a legal holiday on which no business can be transacted legally, and he can't see that he ought to be penalized for breaking the law in that respect.

THE NEWTONS, 18 SQUARE MILES OF BEAUTY AND PEACE

BY PAUL WHELTON

Few people, residents or otherwise, have concerned themselves with the fact that no such community as "Newton," or no such assemblage of villages as The Newtons exists legally.

But if one is guided by the General Court, or Legislature, there is in reality no such place as Newton, Massachusetts, and there are no such places as The Newtons.

A town clerk, back in 1766, put "Newton" in his records, despite the act by a prior General Court that the city—then a township—should be known as New Town.

Since then this form of address has prevailed and, without question, will endure, despite the lack of sanction.

The city of Newton, made up of 10 villages or districts, is famed principally for its gardens, but it could be famed for its brooks, also. The city, 18 square miles of territory, is a network of small watercourses, while along the southern and western boundaries flows the Charles river.

SPLIT ON CHURCH RATE

It was but a decade after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth when Newton was settled, the first dwellers setting up homesteads on the north side of the Charles. Five years later, "Nonantum" was set up, comprising what are now parts of Newton, Brighton and Brookline.

A section of Nonantum, later set off, became Cambridge after the Newton inhabitants objected to further payment of church rates in the subdivision. The separation occurred in 1679, in which year Newton really had its beginning as a city in itself.

Nine years afterward the city was incorporated under the name of "New Cambridge," which, in 1691, was changed by the General Court to New Town. For 75 years the settlement was known variously as "Newtown," "New Town" and "Nonantum," but in that year the town clerk entered the name in his records as "Newton" and from then on it was never changed.

The ten villages comprising the Newtons—Newton, Newton Center, West Newton, Newton Upper Falls, Newton Lower Falls, Newton Highlands, Nonantum, Waban, Auburndale and Chestnut Hill—are presided over and ruled by Edwin O. Childs, record-breaking mayor, who has held that office every year since 1914. And few heads of a city have ever held office for 16 consecutive years.

Runner-up to Mayor Childs in the matter of long terms was J. Wesley Kimball, who was mayor in 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888. Mayor Childs' immediate predecessor, Charles E. Hatfield, held the office for four terms consecutively.

The last published census return, 1925, credits Newton with 53,063 population, and for many of these dwellers in the Garden City, Dr. Thomas Morton Gallagher can be thanked.

MEDICAL DADDY

Dr. Gallagher, associate medical examiner of the district, former football player in the rough-and-tough era three and a half decades ago, and a staff physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, is "medical daddy" to more of Newton's younger residents than I is can calculate offhand.

The physician, his friends assert, brought into the world a greater percentage of healthy and hardy babies than the majority of even the most aspiring medicos. And a number of those whose birth he sponsored became famous in after years.

Dr. Gallagher, named for the discoverer of ether, was born at the Morton Farm in Wellesley, played football for three years on the Boston Athletic Association team back in the nineties with Billy Garcelon, Nate Anthony and Dick Watters; was a bicycle racer at 16 with George Taylor, Peter Burlow, Harry Tyler, Billy Wendell and Arthur Zimmerman. He is a member of the board of aldermen, and is concerned mainly with seeing Newton's water reputed to be the best in the country, up to the standard.

Another outstanding Newton office holder is Chief Bernard F. Burke, who has been in that post for more than seven years, with a record of 40 years as a policeman.

When Chief Burke began patrolling a beat in the Garden City there were but a handful of policemen in Newton, where now the force has grown to 128 men. The 18 square miles of territory comprising Newton when Chief Burke broke in had to be covered on foot by each man in the department daily, but now there are three divisions and the work has been split up.

DIFFERENT NOW

Newton's crime situation gives the chief no worry, he declares. The increase is small and normal. The last murder in Newton was 10 years ago, when a man shot another in River st. on a Sunday afternoon. The murderer was apprehended and sent away for life.

In Newton, over a period of 56 years, there have been only four city clerks, the present incumbent being Frank M. Grant, who assumed the office in 1911. Preceding him were Julius Clark, afterward State auditor; Edwin O. Childs, father of the present mayor and later registrar of deeds for Middlesex County, and Col. Kingsbury, who retired when 70 years old.

Police holders in the Newtons are perennials.

There are many points of interest in the Newtons, but the first greeting to the eye of the traveler heading toward Boston from the west and coming and entering the metropolitan area is Norumbega Park of childhood memory.

With the Charles river in the foreground, it is a fitting setting for the entrance.

A visit to Quincy will be described tomorrow. Don't fail to follow this series.

TRAVEL - TOURS - HOTELS - RESORTS

ARRANGE MANY SHORT TOURS

A variety of short tours, of a week or longer, are offered every week to Washington, D. C., including Alexandria, Mount Vernon, Annapolis and the Naval Academy, Baltimore, Atlantic City and New York, with optional side trips to Richmond, Luray Caverns, Natural Bridge and other places. Shoresea trips every week to Old Point Comfort and Washington, returning via Atlantic City and New York; also to Florida and Cuba. Cruises of 12 days to Bermuda, with departures every Tuesday during May.

Longer tours are offered daily by rail or motor coach to California or by steamer through the Panama Canal. Delightful tour under escort for Shriners' convention in Los Angeles leaves May 29. Ocean passage via all lines to Europe, under escort and independent. Complete itineraries of tours may be received from George E. Marsters, Inc., 248 Washington st., Boston.

EUROPEAN RAIL TICKETS SOLD

For the past two years the North German Lloyd Company at 65 State st., has maintained an office where all European railroad and airplane tickets could be bought at the regular tariff rates charged in Europe.

Many travelers take advantage of this and purchases their railroad and airplane tickets before their departure, thereby reserving the time they would otherwise have to spend in line in front of railroad booking offices for sightseeing.

In addition to the Continental railroad tickets, arrangements have now been made whereby reduced tickets of the Railway Clearing House in London, for vacation tours in England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland are being sold now also at this same office.

Airplane Plant to Be Enlarged

Joseph Kreutzer Corp., airplane manufacturers, announce the completion of plans for a new factory at Culver City, Cal., to be started immediately. The new plant will give the corporation a production of six planes per week. Orders now standing on the books of the company will more than absorb the entire 1929 production. The contracts alone now hold call for the delivery of 70 Kreutzer planes during 1929, 60 to the Western Aircraft Co., and 10 for export trade, to be delivered to Steel, Inc.

SEEK AIRPORT FOR RESORT

Banff, Alta., May 23—Tourists attracted to this popular mountain resort may some day arrive in air liners as well as aboard the transcanada, and air mail and express may be dropped off here, if the air-minded citizens of the town have any weight with the authorities.

The Banff Aero Club, backed by various community organizations, is endeavoring to have Banff made the western terminus for the air mail and express service, and is examining local fields in an effort to establish a suitable airport.

Tours by air liners are already in operation, and it is predicted that visitors to the Banff Springs Hotel will soon arrive by air, and that patients wishing treatment by the radium hot springs will be hurried here by plane.

EAST WIND KEEPS MERCURY DOWN

An errant easterly wind which decided to frolic for a time in Southern New England effectually curbed the upward tendency of the mercury today, but its restraining chill is expected to relax by nightfall.

Clouds beginning to appear on the northern horizon indicate lowering skies here tomorrow, with the probability of showers tomorrow night, both to be borne to the Atlantic coast on the fringe of a disturbance developing north of Lake Superior.

'Advertise or You Will Fossilize,' Says Lord

Paris, May 23 (INS)—Samson, friend of Delilah, was the world's first successful advertiser, since he took two columns and brought down the house!

Authorship of this witticism belongs to Lord DeWar, noted British wit and distiller, who spoke at an exhibition of British railroad posters now on view in Parisian travel bureaus.

In his speech Lord DeWar proved himself an expert giver of epigrammatical advertising advice. "If you do not advertise you fossilize," said his lordship. He further maintained that "many a false step is made by standing still."

Much in the same vein was his statement that "footprints upon the sands of time are not made by sitting down."

Lord DeWar proceeded to prove that the Egyptians were the earliest advertisers. Rameses II, he said, was an expert "ad" man. This august monarch chiselled his trademark on every conceivable object, determined to show posterity his abilities as an aggressive advertiser.

The importance of flattery seems to be fully understood by the British lord.

He claims a "no man, however insignificant he looks, questions your judgment when you tell him he looks distinguished."

Some chap for the boys who join the navy to see the world is contained in Lord DeWar's remarks about the Kellogg pact:

"The great nations, having agreed not to go to war, the warships that are being built now can only mean that they are going to be used to give the sailors personally concerned pleasure cruises."

PROMINENT LADY SPEEDER PAYS $5

In Judge Avery's session of Quincy district court today Mrs. Rosamond Newton of Ivory st, Brookline, director of religious education of the Episcopal diocese of Boston, was held guilty of speeding on the Southern Artery. Her case was filed and she was assessed $5. Trooper John Hutchinson testified she was driving 35 to 40 miles an hour.

The same officer had F. Carlton Waugh, famous Provincetown artist, in the same court on the same charge. Waugh was found guilty and fined $10. He was doing 50 miles an hour according to the officer.

New Postal Treaty

Paris, May 23 (AP)—A new postal convention between France and Canada whereby postage from France to Canada is reduced 50 per cent and that from Canada to France takes the same rate as to Great Britain, was signed in the foreign office today.

ZERO IN JAIL; THEN WIND SHIFTS

Appearing before Judge Edward L. Logan in South Boston District Court today, Torfe Zero, of Dorchester ave., South Boston, was found guilty of keeping and exposing liquor for sale, and was fined $250. He was unable to pay the fine and was put in jail. Shortly afterwards he produced the money and was released.

This was Zero's fourth appearance in court on similar charges.

Unionists Elect 23 at Polls in Erin

Belfast, Northern Ireland, May 23 (AP)—The state of the parties in the Ulster parliamentary election, including the unopposed, according to latest returns, follow: Unionists, 23; Independents, 1; Nationalists, 7.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

4000 KILLED IN MEXICAN REVOLT

Mexico City, May 23 (AP)—El Universal Grafico, claiming to have its figures from official sources, today said that 4000 lives were lost in the revolution which has just been ended. Eleven thousand soldiers were wounded.

Financial losses were estimated at 100,000,000 pesos, or just less than $50,000,000. Foreigners were said to be preparing damage claims amounting to $2,500,000. About 300 miles of railroad track were destroyed, and 40 railroad bridges blown up in the military operations.

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, and a few friends visited the Harry E. Burroughs News boys' Foundation at 10 Somerset st. Mr. Ochs was accompanied by Rabbi Harry Levi of this city, Rabbi Jonah Wise of New York, Rabbi Harry Abrams of Boston and Henry Penn, the florist.

WEEKS TO RUN FOR MAYOR OF NEWTON

A keen contest for the mayoralty of Newton next fall was foreshadowed today when Sinclair Weeks, son of the late Secretary of War John W Weeks, and president of the Board of Aldermen, announced his candidacy for the office.

Sinclair Weeks

The announcement failed to bring forth from Mayor Edwin O. Childs, "the perpetual Mayor," any indication whether Weeks or not he will be a candidate for re-election, but friends expressed belief that he will be in the race.

"I am exceedingly busy attending to the duties of the office to which I was elected and have given no thought to my political future," he said.

Childs has been mayor for the past 16 years and is now completing his eighth term. In aspiring to the office, Weeks is endeavoring to follow in the footsteps of his father, who was mayor of Newton before he was elected to Congress.

Weeks has served as alderman for seven years, and president of the board for the past three years. He is president of the Reed & Barton Corp., Taunton, and of the United States Fastener Co., South Boston. He is a director and former assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Boston.

OVERSEAS VETERAN

He began service in the World War as a second lieutenant in the 101st Field Artillery of the 26th Division, and rose to the rank of captain of the same regiment. His service in France dated from September, 1917, to April, 1919. He is a graduate of Newton high school and Harvard College. He is married, has six children, and resides on Valentine st., West Newton.

In making known the fact that he would be a candidate for mayor, Weeks issued the following statement:

"At the city election to be held this fall, the voters of Newton will be asked to choose a mayor to serve them for a term of two years.

"After careful consideration and at the request of a number of my friends, I have decided to become a candidate for that office. I look upon the office of Mayor of the city of Newton as a position of responsibility and trust, to which any person may honorably aspire. As chief executive of the city government, the Mayor is charged with the duty of directing and guiding the expenditure of large sums of money in the maintenance of your public institutions, our streets, and all of the other departments and public works, the proper development of which goes toward making Newton a city where people want to live and make their homes.

"My knowledge of municipal problems gained through seven years' service in the Board of Aldermen leads me to believe that if elected Mayor I may be able to give to this city some measure of service in the administration of its affairs, and to this end I should of course bend every effort."

WEEKS SILENT

When he was informed of the decision of Weeks to seek the office he now holds, Mayor Childs stated:

"Mr. Weeks told me more than a month ago that he was going to announce his candidacy in a very short time. To aspire to be mayor of any Massachusetts city is a worthy ambition.

"Two things are necessary in order to realize this ambition. First to announce one's candidacy and second to get elected."

FRENCH BUDGET 132 MILLIONS

Paris, May 23 (AP)—The French budget for 1930 will exceed that for 1929 by approximately 1,500,000,000 francs (about $132,000,000) under the terms of a bill introduced today at the reopening of Parliament.

Receipts were placed at 48,722,105 000 francs (about $1,948,800,000) and expenses at 48,663,918,000 francs (about $1,946,600,000) leaving a balance of 56,187,000 (about $2,240,000).

Despite the increase in the total amount of the budget direct taxpayers will profit by a reduction in taxes of approximately 1,500,000 francs (about $60,000,000).

MRS. HENRY PARSONS KING, JR., IS NEW HEAD OF VINCENT CLUB

Miss Harriet Morse Is Elected First Vice-President

MRS. HENRY PARSONS KING, JR., of Marlboro st., was elected president of the Vincent Club, most exclusive of all Boston society clubs, at the annual meeting and reunion of members at the Dedham Country Club yesterday. Very quietly, almost secretly, about 100 of the creme de la creme many of whom had taken parts in the recent Vincent Club show, met for luncheon at the club and chose the following officers to assist Mrs. King: Miss Harriet Morse first vice-president; Miss Betty Bartlett, second vice-president; Mrs. La Baron Colt, treasurer, Miss Eleanor Gibson, secretary Two new members of the executive board elected were Mrs. Henry Bohlen, Jr., and Mrs. Sumner Pingree.

NOT OFTEN IS IT POSSIBLE for the membership of this club to meet informally without the rest of the world knowing of it beforehand, but at least 100 girls in Boston's upper others know how to keep a secret! After luncheon the members spent the afternoon playing tennis and other relaxations. Some of those participating were Miss Dorothy Lawrence, Miss Antiss Boyden, Miss Sally Sprague Miss Cora Lyman, Misses Susan and Mary Hammond, Miss Jean Sears, Miss Edith Wolcott, Miss Dorothy Rogers, Miss Luisita Leland, Miss Mary Bigelow, Miss Anna Walcott, Mrs. George Burgess, Mrs. William Coxe, Jr. (Jessie Bancroft), and many other smart young matrons were there.

"I CAN'T TELL WHICH I AM enjoying most—the flowers or the children," remarked one smart matron to another during the al fresco garden fete on the beautiful estate of Mrs. Richard M Saltonstall on Chestnut Hill yesterday afternoon. That lady voiced the sentiment of hundreds of other society mothers whose children had a perfectly gorgeous time at the garden pool, the pony paddock, the various booths, presided over by members of Boston's first families. It was a colorful, gay and generous gathering, to whom the Habit Clinic for Child Guidance will be grateful, since many dollars were poured into the coffers in charge of Mrs. Ralph Bradley and Mrs. Lyneham Crocker, assisted by a large committee.

POLLY, FANNY AND CATHERINE CURTIS, togged out in blue costumes with the Paris dash, were the cynosure of many pairs of admiring eyes as they paraded around the pool, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Louis Curtis, Jr., of Marlborough st Other interesting children seen were young master Henry Cobb and his small contemporary, John Thorndike, sons of the Charles K. Cobbs of Chestnut Hill and Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Thorndike, jr. of Commonwealth ave. Little Hannah Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bradley; Kitty Busk, whose mother, Mrs F. Wadsworth Busk, accompanied her; young Edward L. Bigelow, Jr., and his sister, Olivia Ames Bigelow, and Eric and Richard Saltonstall West, Jr., each would have delighted a portrait painter.

DEBUTANTES ASSISTING AT the fete included Miss Louise Fessenden, Miss Harriet Mason, Miss Constance Crocker, Miss Eleanor Frothingham and Miss Katherine Powers. Mrs. John Lowell, just back from the national Garden Club convention in Philadelphia, had glowing reports of garden affairs for friends meeting there, including Mrs. S. H. Fessenden, Mrs. Richard Eustis, Mrs. Richard Russell, Mrs. William Dexter, Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mrs. John P. Marquand and many more.

ONCE A LUNCHEON PARTY of society women meant the rustling of silken frocks; now it often means the rustling of crisp bills for a worthy charity. Such a cause was served yesterday at the Chestnut Hill home of Mrs. James A. Nelson, where scores of visitors to the Saltonstall garden party stopped in to benefit the Christopher Shop. The lobster dish, famous in army posts throughout the world, was concocted by Mrs. Emmett A. Addis for this occasion and a salad a la Victor Hugo done by Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Horace Morison chairman of the executive board, had charge of the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. George H. Mayo and Mrs. William Greeley.

NOT TO EVERY GIRL TRAVELING in the Old World falls the adventure of camping on the sands of the Lybian desert in the midst of a caravan of camels, Arabian horses, native servants, et cetera. But Miss Nancy O. Morison, traveling with Miss Sally Parker and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swinnerton Parker, has this experience to look back upon after her return with the Parkers on the Scythia, sailing for home June 1. The party spent a week on the desert in native fashion and, after having been stuck on a mud flat in the Nile, journeyed to Greece, lived in an Italian palace on the Grand Canal in Venice, motored through the Tyrol, Bavaria, Austria and the Black Forest of Germany, finally joining Miss Elizabeth Morison in Paris. Miss Parker and Miss Morison were guests of Miss Elizabeth Morison at a reunion luncheon for Winsor school girls studying in Paris where 14 of the Alma Mater were assembled. Miss Elizabeth is studying music and will not return to Boston until next September.

BRIDGE, PLAYED BY SKILFUL hands that love the game as much as they enjoy helping a worthy cause, will be the magnet which will draw a large portion of society to the Chestnut Hill home of Mrs. Edward Winslow Ware on Groton st. tomorrow evening. Relief for needy veterans in the South is the goal sought by the Boston chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, giving the party at the home of the first vice-president The committee in charge includes Mrs. James M. Head, Mrs. Albert Rider, Mrs. Charles E. Murnan, Mrs. Peter Nicholans, Mrs. R. L. Collier, Mrs. J. M. Humphreys, Miss Emmeline Ruggles, Mrs. William Duncan, Mrs. George R. Heiges, Mrs. P. G. Berry and Mrs A. A. Pollan.

Helen Wills' Bare Legs Arouse British Elite

London, May 23 (INS)—Can Helen Wills, after being presented to Queen Mary at the first of the season's royal courts, show her stockingless legs when she appears at Wimbledon on June 25 to defend her title as woman tennis champion of England?

That is the question buzzing through Mayfair today, following reports from Paris that Helen is playing without 'em, and that she says she'll do the same at Wimbledon if she feels like it.

Going without stockings on the tennis court "simply isn't done" in England, and when they say that something isn't done here, they mean it isn't—except by Americans.

Moreover, presentation at the courts is supposed to imply on the part of the one presented the strictest adherence to what Queen Mary considers good form, and it is the presumption that the Queen does not approve of young women playing tennis with bare legs.

The Mark of Genuine Aspirin..

BAYER ASPIRIN is like an old friend, tried and true. There can never be a satisfactory substitute for either one. Bayer Aspirin is genuine. It is the accepted antidote for pain. Its relief may always be relied on, whether used for the occasional headache, to head-off a cold, or for the more serious aches and pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism or other ailments. It's easy to identify Bayer Aspirin by the Bayer Cross on every tablet, by the name Bayer on the box and the word "genuine" always printed in red.

LAW PROBERS URGED TO ACT ON DRUG EVIL

Washington, May 23 (INS)—President Hoover has been urged by Representative Fish (R) of New York to instruct his national law enforcement commission to conduct an investigation of the drug evil.

The commission will hold its first meeting at the White House next Tuesday. White House attaches declared the narcotic problem would be one of the chief subjects to come under the commission's microscope

"I am exceedingly hopeful that the President's commission will make a thorough and impartial investigation of the narcotic situation and will recommend legislation to make enforcement effective," said Fish after the conference yesterday.

Pointing out that America's greatest problem in fighting the narcotic menace was to prevent the smuggling of huge quantities of narcotics from Europe, Mr. Fish recommended that the administration send a representative to the permanent narcotic control board in Geneva.

A year ago the League of Nations invited America to appoint a member to the board. Secretary of State Kellogg declined, on the ground that the board was provided with no effective means to reduce the world's supply of narcotic drugs to legitimate needs However, America agreed to cooperate

"In view of the fact that the United States is the worst sufferer from the smuggling of narcotics, our own interest would be served best by signing the Geneva convention," said Representative Fish.

Mexican Woman's Case Is Filed

The case of Mrs. Maria Dominguez of Belmont, wife of Raul G. Dominguez, Mexican consul in Boston, who was arraigned in municipal court on a charge of larceny of a dress, valued at $14.95, from a store, was placed on file, after her counsel entered a plea of "admitting a finding of guilty."

Prince of Wales Is Using Airplane to Keep Engagements

London, May 23—Like many American businessmen, the Prince of Wales is using the airplane for swift passage to keep the engagements necessitated by his business as heir-apparent to the throne and active agent for his convalescent father, King George V.

Last night his plane landed him at the Hendon Airdrome, after a 400-mile flight to Nottingham and back. At Nottingham, he formally opened the new municipal exchange buildings. Then he flew back to London.

TYPICAL GIRL IS TEACHER IN MIAMI

New York City, May 23—Smart Set Magazine announces that its national jury award has chosen Miss Edna Peters of Miami, Fla., has the Typical American Girl. Miss Peters was one of the 18 girls who appeared before Smart Set's jury in this city. The young women were chosen by 18 newspapers, in key cities of the United States. These newspapers conducted separate quests, in which about 5000 young women appeared. Virginia H. Rigby, won the Boston Evening American entry.

The national jury was composed of Prof. Harry D. Kitson of Teachers' College, Columbia University, an authority on vocational education; John Golden, theatrical producer; Margaret Sangster, editor of Smart Set; Guy Hoff, the portrait painter; Mrs. Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, society woman, and Miss Kathryn Dougherty, secretary and treasurer of Photoplay Magazine.

The decision of the judges was that Miss Peters best typified the American girl. As to her appearance—she has dark brown hair and hazel eyes, is five feet four inches tall and weighs 109 pounds.

Like all the girls in the contest, she is much interested in sports and is active in the social and civic activities of her home town. She was the first president of the Junior Women's Club in Miami.

Last summer, when the city had no money to pay recreation directors, she established a story hour for children in one of Miami's pub lic parks. In the fall the city established this hour as part of the city's recreational program. Miss Peters helped organize a children's theater, free to children between the ages of four and fourteen.

Although she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Peters, early south Florida settlers, Edna is a teacher in an elocution school and fills speaking engagements.

The names of the girls and the 18 newspapers which participated in the quest are:

Queen of All

Miss Edna Peters of Miami, Fla., has been selected as the typical American girl by the Smart Set jury of award, winning $5000 and a trip to Europe

CHINESE TRADE BOOM WILL AID PACIFIC PORTS

New York, May 23 (INS)—The economic sun is about to rise for the new China and the strength of its rays will set the Pacific Coast on fire with prosperity.

A new-born spirit of democracy blended with American business methods and a diversion of Chinese trade to Pacific Coast ports instead of through Europe, was outlined today by R. Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, who returned with his wife from a trip around the world.

"China is on the verge of a tremendous economic renaissance," said Cromie. "It has become a real democracy and the youth of the land is back of the movement. American business men are aiding the new government in every way and American influence has supplanted the power of England and Japan under the old regime."

Cromie pictured China as having unlimited natural resources, pointing out the wide variety of climates it included for varied productivity.

"All China needs is a picture of America to guide it along a similar course," the publisher continued.

Julius Morgenthau, Philatelist, Dead

New Gothic Church for Roxbury Parish

Work has been started on the foundation for a Gothic church for St. Theresa's parish, at 2078 Centar st., West Roxbury.

The exterior of the structure will be seamfaced granite, with limestone trimmings. Unlike most Catholic churches of this archdiocese, the new St. Theresa's will be without basement church. Instead it will have a chapel behind the transept, which will seat 400 persons, and the nave will seat about 1000.

Fine Motorist for Interrupting Funeral

Pittsfield, May 23—Wilfred H. Priestman was fined $3.38, costs in district court, on a charge of interrupting a funeral procession with his automobile in Dalton. The case was prosecuted by Police Chief Joseph H. Claffie of that town.

Rudolph A. King, who came here from Connecticut, giving his occupation as a dancer, was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction on a charge of misconduct.

Providence Pastor Elected President

Providence, May 23—The Rhode Island Baptist Ministers' Conference elected Rev. Herbert E. Macombie, pastor of the Elmwood Avenue Baptist Church, as president for the coming year. Rev. Henry Parsons was elected vice-president; Rev. C. Barnard Chapman, secretary; Rev. J. H. Prenberth, treasurer, and Rev. H. L. Noyes, chairman of the program committee.

Missouri Objects; Levee Job Delayed

Washington, May 23—Senator Hawes, Democrat, of Missouri, announced after a conference with Secretary Good of the War Department, that the Government has agreed to suspend the making of awards from the construction of the set-back leves from Birds Point to New Madrid, pending an investigation.

Senator Hawes presented to Secretary Good a protest by the entire Missouri delegation and of Governor Caulfield against the proposed construction.

A SIX-DAY STORY

Thrilling Six-Day Novel by a Noted Author

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Kitty Grayson, 18, pretty and avid for life, leaves business school and goes to work. She meets Jimmie Barron, who aids her when she falls from a bus. In the office where she is working, Kitty meets Irma Paintor, who introduces her to Frank Hinkler. Irma tells Kitty to be nice to Hinkler, but Kitty's thoughts are full of Jimmie. She tried, however, to forget him, as she has not seen him since the day of their first encounter. Kitty is guest at a party which Hinkler gives at a roadhouse. He suggests that they all go to his bungalow, and Kitty sees Jimmie Barron, who tells her not to go. She tries to get out of going, but Hinkler insists she give him a "reason"!

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 4.

KITTY stood with Jimmie Barron underneath the apple tree He was looking down at her with eager, lighted glance.

Oh! handsome! A young man any girl would fancy! Gallant and gay!

"I've wanted so much to see you. I—I do hope you forgave me about—today?"

Forgive him?

He caught her hand in his.

"I was—wretched—about it. You don't know how disappointed Kitty—you do understand?"

"I—I did want—to see you—"

"You're sure? I was so awfully afraid—you cut me off so quickly—that I'd offended you. I tried to call you back again. There wasn't any answer. It sure worried me."

She tried to answer him—airily—like a woman of the world—as Vina Byrne would have done

But her breath came short, and tears—tears of relief and ecstasy—crept into her eyes.

He saw them. With an uncontrollable impulse—(oh! he shouldn't do it!)—he hadn't got the right to

Hyde Park Folk Answer His Daily Question and Pose for Picture

THE QUESTION

Do you approve of the legislators raising their own salary $500 by passing the bill over the governor's veto?

MRS. K. F. KIMBALL, Blake st.—That's a question. If men elected to the Legislature are performing their duties in the proper way I believe they should be granted the increase. They are in positions where they represent the citizens and if they vote conscientiously on bills presented I think they are entitled to receive substantial monetary reward. The legislators of the State as a rule are true representatives sent to the State House to break out our public affairs thoroughly before they are acted upon.

MAX SIMONS, Hyde Park ave.—For the amount of time and effort our legislators put in their work, I think they should be better compensated. If they want an increase of $500 over the $1500 they are now paid, it is only right to give it to them. They are working in the interest of our citizens and should be well paid. We should show appreciation of their work and gladly grant what they ask.

* * *

MRS. GEORGE R. COREY, Blake st.—When one considers how much time is demanded of the men comprising our State Legislature it appears to me that they should be allowed good salaries as they are getting only $1500 at present and they have voted as a body that it is not sufficient, I think there should be no hesitation in giving them an additional $500. They are men who work earnestly and hard for the benefit of the citizens at large.

* * *

WILLARD BARNETT, Woodland pl.—When you realize that our legislators are getting only $1500 a year, and are always being called upon to "dig down" into their pockets to pay for tickets for this and that, they are entitled to a decent salary. They are now underpaid, and an extra $500 at least should be added to their pay. If they spent the time demanded in legislating our laws in personal business it is safe to say that the legislators would make more than the sum they are rightfully hoping to get.

GIRL 'SEES' MISSING STUDENT

New York, May 23 (AP)—Frederick McCann, wholesale coal dealer, received a letter from Frankfort, N. Y., today saying a youth believed to be Frederick McCann, Jr., missing Amherst student, was seen Tuesday walking toward Utica.

The letter was from Helen Dempsey of Frankfort, who said she was certain the youth was the missing student and suggested the father get in touch at once with police of Utica, Syracuse and other nearby points, a suggestion which was followed immediately.

FAILS TO MAKE GOOD, JAILED

Failing to make restitution for the theft of a diamond ring and $35 from his roommate, John Gillan of River st., Cambridge, was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction today by Judge Arthur P. Stone in the East Cambridge district court.

Gillan was found guilty of the larceny six months ago. His roommate, Edward B. Dement, had charged that the money and ring were stolen while he was asleep. Gillian was given a suspended sentence when he agreed to make restitution, but when he failed to do so he was brought into court and the sentence put into effect.

Middlesex Gardens Damaged by Frosts

Frost early today did heavy damage to Middlesex county gardens.

The official temperature at Concord dropped to 31.3, just one freezing. Ground temperatures elsewhere were considerably lower. The unofficial reading at Burlington was 20 and at Lexington 21.

Early asparagus was badly hurt by the unseasonable cold. Beans, tomatoes and other garden truck were also blighted on many farms.

SEES BODY OF DEAD WIFE

Lewiston, Me., May 25—The body of Mrs. Thelma Smith, young Portland mother for whose death a local physician and his housekeeper are held charged with manslaughter, was viewed today by the victim's husband, Ivan C. Smith.

Smith arrived here early this forenoon and went direct to police headquarters to consult with officials. Later he accompanied them to the hospital, where the body awaits an autopsy, to be performed by Dr. George Burgess Magrath of Boston.

The body, which was found lodged in a mass of debris in the Androscoggin river, a mile below the city, has already been identified by Mrs. Albert Hayes of South Portland as that of Thelma Smith.

Manslaughter warrants against Dr. Charles K. Donnell, aged physician, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Estello Edwards, were issued after the Smith woman disappeared on March 22.

At the preliminary hearing of the couple, Mrs. Hayes testified that she had accompanied Mrs Smith to Dr. Donnell's home, where the authorities allege she was the victim of illegal surgery.

Attorney-General Clement F. Robinson, who caused the arrests, declared at the time that production of the body was not needed to support the state's case.

Smith, in identifying the body as that of his wife, broke down and was unable to speak for 30 minutes.

Jolson's Wife in New York

New York, May 23 (INS)—Ruby Keller, bride of Al Jolson, arrived in New York today and went directly to the Victoria Theater for her first rehearsal in a new Ziegfeld show. She was greeted at the station by her mother and brother and a telegram from her husband, who remained in Hollywood.

Italy Increases Tariff on Wheat

Rome, May 23 (AP)—The Council of Ministers decided to raise the tariff on imported wheat as from today from 31 gold lire to 44 and on wheat flour and other products to proportion.

The decision, says a semi-official source, was due to marked depression in the international grain market which might have a direct repercussion on the price at the next harvest within the kingdom. The increased duty was stated to have been adopted in order to protect better the national wheat production.

ACTION BY CROWLEY UNLIKELY

Mrs. Margaret Sanger may lecture on birth control next Sunday at the Community Church in Symphony Hall with definite assurance that neither Mayor Nichols nor City Censor Casey will interfere, and with a probability that police will not molest her.

According to Mayor Nichols the matter rests with the police, since no license is needed to hold a church service

And today Police Supt. Crowley said that if Mrs. Sanger speaks under sponsorship of a church, "we probably will not bother her; we never disturb church services."

The police director would not commit himself further, stating,

"We have police details at church services only on rare occasions However, the law with reference to birth control talks is very plain, and Chapter 272, Section 20, of the General Laws covers it pretty well "It would make the police of Boston appear ridiculous if we were to give advance information to Mrs. Sanger as to what will be done next Sunday."

TWO SHOE STRIKERS ACCUSED

A girl and man shoe striker were each charged with assault and battery in complaints made out today in Chelsea court by two workers in a factory on Everett ave.

Miss Mildred Crowley, 18, of Cottage st., Chelsea, swore out a complaint against Miss Amelia Georgolas of Sixth st. and Stanley Dawnsrow of Beech st. lodged a charge against Walter Capodilupo of True st., Revere

The two shoeworkers said they were attacked upon leaving the factory after work, a pitched battle ensuing between Miss Crowley and the other girl, while Dawnsrow was set upon by 11 men

Clerk Joseph Curley, who issued these complaints, also heard stories by Miss Crowley, Miss Eva Strong of Third st. and John Dimonte of Franklin ave. regarding alleged threats of violence. He set a later date for a hearing, at which both sides will be heard.

Six strikers charged with obstructing a public highway were arraigned in the court, but their cases were continued to May 28. They were arrested in front of a factory on Arlington st.

Schaaf Is to Rely on Punch in Bout With Loughran

PLANS TO ROUGH UP CHAMP

Fighting Viking in Best Possible Condition for Tussle at the Garden

By JACK CONWAY

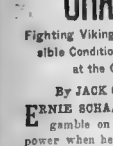
The Fighting Viking believes his big sock will enable him to send Loughran down to defeat



Jack Conway

"I shall rely on my aggressiveness, youth and punching power to defeat Loughran," Schaaf told this writer following a strenuous workout at Wrentham. "I think I am as good a right hand puncher as there is in the business, while I also hit hard with my left.

"I have been studying Loughran's record and I find he does not stand up very well when nailed on the chin. Leo Lomski had him on the floor twice in the first round. Only a split second deprived Lomski of the title.

"In earlier bouts Loughran was sent to the canvas by Gene Tunney and Pal Reed. I figure I hit harder than Lomski, Tunney or Reed.

"Loughran isn't a knockout himself. He relies upon his skill and speed to win. But skill and speed don't get one anywhere if you are in there with a rushing battler who keeps tossing heavy broadsides.

"I realize that if I can win from Loughran that I shall be in line to secure matches with the leading heavyweights in the country I intend to make the most of my opportunity."

SCHAAF, a youth of 20, looks to be in perfect condition. Phil Schioberg, his manager, has a brush in to the finish carefully. His chief triumph was a victory over Johnny Risko at the Garden.

Eddie Mack has promised Schaaf an outdoor shot with Jim Maloney if he comes through with a win over Loughran. Schaaf also has visions of securing a match with Riccardo Bertazzolo, Italian heavyweight.

EDDIE MACK regards his preliminary card as one of the best of the season and he will uncover new stars of the ring in the eight-round semi-finals when Gary Leach of Syracuse meets Harry Smith of New York. These middleweights have been punching their way to the top during the past year and each has registered long strings of knockouts.

Each got their start in amateur ranks, Leach first came into prominence when he won the international championship in this city in 1926. Leach turned pro a year ago and in 25 bouts, he has won 24, 15 by the knockout route, lost once, one draw and two no decision bouts.

Smith has knocked out 11 opponents in 15 bouts. He won three amateur titles before he invaded the pros. Joey Knapp, well-known here proved easy for him in ten rounds while he includes Eddie Feister, well-known here among his knockout victims. He is a fast worker for in 11 knockout bouts, the longest any of them has gone has been five rounds.

LaBarba Still N. B. A. Champ

Providence, May 23 (AP)—The National Boxing Association regards Fidel LaBarba as the logical bantamweight champion, despite his defeat last night by Kid Chocolate, Edward C. Foster, chairman of the N. B. A. championship committee announced today.

"As neither boy made the stipulated weight," Mr. Foster says, "the N. B. A. cannot alter its selection of LaBarba as the outstanding bantamweight. Had they entered at the weight limit, Kid Chocolate today would be recognized by the N. B. A. as champion of the world."

HOSE HOPE TO GO UP IN STANDING

By NICK FLATLEY

BILL CARRIGAN has his Red Sox back at the Fenway today, after a desolate journey around the circuit. The much-hammered and assaulted athletes have almost a month in their own backyard, and Manager Bill hopes that sun will start shining for them in that stretch.

A good manager like Carrigan can do a lot with morning practice sessions. The Sox will have plenty of work before lunch every pleasant day, for there are more than a few defects that may be ironed out by practice.

The returning heroes have nothing soft to start their longest home stand of the year. They open a four-game series with Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the rest of the Yanks today. And the champions are a bit boiled up, what with trailing the Athletic outfit, and a double pasting the Senator's hung on them yesterday.

The Babe will bring a large gang out to see the resumption of baseball at the Fenway and perhaps a little enthusiastic support will help to restore the drooping spirits of the natives.

THE Sox have been switched around, and players shoted in and out on the road, to great effect. Carrigan is still looking for a combination that will click. He is trying Walter Gerber at short again, and it looks now as if the veteran might stick in there, until the grind begins to wear him down. Walter, when feeling frisky, will be one of the great shortstops. And he will hit as well as anybody who has been trying to take over his job.

Bigelow and Taitt are playing the outfield, because of their hitting power and Williams gets in there occasionally. Jack Rothrock is the only steady regular, and he is the one bright spot in Carrigan's life just now. Jack has developed into a fine outfielder and a good hitter, and figures to improve.

Ira Flagstead, who has been home for a couple of weeks shaking the flu, is ready to go back to ing off the flu, is ready to go back to work. If he's right, he will help.

Jack Russell, who had middling success on the road, was billed to pitch the first clash with the Yanks. Jack is good at the Fenway, and has been a tough bird for the champs to drop there. Herbie Pennock is likely to give that ailing arm another workout for Miller Huggins.

MILLER HUGGINS and the Yankees are worrying a bit about the Athletics. The champions looked like a great team in the South. And they are all of that. Apart from their pitching. The hurlers have been falling down much too frequently to please little Miller, who has been trying desperately to hammer some of his youngsters into shape.

This time a year ago, the Yanks were running away with the race. Now they are in third place, with a bothering gap reaching up to the Athletics, who are going on high, and set, apparently to keep that way.

Pipgras has not been the pitcher he was a year ago, Pennock has failed to show consistent form, and Johnson continues wild, his chronic fault. Waite Hoyt holds up, but he cannot hoist the club up by himself.

The Babe and Lou are having their usual home run race, and the whole club is smacking the ball well, but state of the pitching department gives any club a chance in a series.

CHEER STAMPEDE VICTIMS

Chicago Stadium Fighters Set to Go

Chicago, May 23 (INS)—With training over, all principals on Promoter Paddy Harmon's boxing card in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night were preparing to weigh in at the boxing commission's offices.

Tuffy Griffith, Iowa light-heavyweight, hopes to beat Al Friedman, Boston heavy, in order to win a bout with Tommy Loughran for the 175-pound title.

They are scheduled for 10 rounds as are Jackie Fields against Clyde Chastain, Texas welter, and Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight against Armando Santiago, Cuban.

Sarah Palfrey Wins at The Country Club

Miss Sarah Palfrey of the Palfrey clan of tennis players advanced to the semifinal round in the women's State singles championship yesterday at the Country Club in Brookline when she defeated Miss Marjorie Sachs of Cambridge in the only match played in the fourth round. Miss Palfrey was obliged to play an extra set before downing the Cantab, 6—3, 1—6, 6—0.

Kid Chocolate Beats LaBarba

New York, May 23—Flashing Kid Chocolate, negro bantamweight from Cuba, disposed of one of the outstanding men of his division, by winning a 10-round decision over Fidel LaBarba of Los Angeles, exflyweight champion. The decision was booed by a crowd of 18,000.

Tony Ross, a newcomer to New York featherweight circles from Baltimore, Md., lost the decision to Archie Bell of Brooklyn on a foul in the first round of a 10-rounder, the opener of the card.

BRAVES PLEASED OVER ESCAPE FROM PHILS

New York, May 23—The Braves are here and glad of it. Had they remained at home they would, perhaps, have had to battle the Phils again and that is something that is too horrible for Judge Fuchs, Johnny Evers, Hank Gowdy, et al, to think about.

Then the Braves have another reason for being thankful. They are here to play the Giants and they have some reason for feeling they have the Indian sign on the McGrawmen. To date, the two clubs have clashed in seven frays, and the Braves have emerged victorious on five occasions. Furthermore it is whispered, that fielding bobbles by the Bostonians were needed to accomplish their two defeats. Anyway, the Giants didn't appear capable of winning unassisted.

The Giants are the real mystery team of the year. On paper they shape up with the best of them; on the field they class with the Doggers. They couldn't get any lower than that without falling out of the league altogether. Exactly what's the matter is difficult to say. Individually, save the pitchers, they perform all right, but they don't seem able to get results, and results are what count in baseball and in this man's town in particular.

If Boss Jawn doesn't inject some pep, or ginger, or dynamite or whatever it is they give ball players who are afflicted with sleeping sickness, business is going to become so bad at the Polo Grounds that Florida land investment will appear to him more profitable than U. S. Steel and safer than the Sub Treasury.

Anyhow, Bobby Smith has been elected to do the chucking for the Tribe, while it doesn't matter in the least who performs for the Giants. Whoever he may be he is almost certain to be worse than anybody else.

Holy Cross-Tufts Tie

Worcester, May 23—The Holy Cross and Tufts tennis teams battled to a 3 to 3 draw on the Mt. St. James courts. The Purple took three of the singles matches while Tufts captured one of the singles and both doubles.

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

MR. BOSTON wandered into Jim Toland's Gym for the express purpose of watching Marin Plestina tear a dozen or so sparring partners to pieces. The "Trust Buster" is billed to clash with one Gus Sonnenberg at the New Boston Arena on next Tuesday night, and there are a great many people who believe the title will change hands.

There was a heavy creaking of stairs which was followed by the appearance of the giant Plestina. When Martin was ready for action, he asked: "Where are my sparring partners?"

Jim Toland conducted a search of the gym and finally came forth with Jack McGrath of Worcester, an old-time wrestler and now a respectable promoter.

"Will you work with me?" demanded Plestina.

"I had some ale last night and don't feel like wrestling," sighed McGrath.

"You'll do," said Martin.

"Not today," replied Jim. "I have to watch after the business end of things."

"Get that big fellow," he ordered.

"He knocks over buildings with his right hand," advised Mr. Boston.

"Don't make any difference," went on Plestina.

"I'm afraid Big Boy might learn some wrestling holds and ruin himself as a boxer if I let him work with you," said Mike Carr good naturedly.

PLESTINA was finally obliged to go through his training without the aid of any sparring partner.

"It has always been this way," said Plestina. "Just because I treat my opponents a little rough I cannot get sparring partners. I just heard that Dan Koloff has quit Sonnenberg's camp. I'll gladly pay him $500 to work out with me each day until my battle with the champion."

"HOW do you think you will go against Sonnenberg?" asked Mr. Boston.

"I feel I am sure to win," replied Plestina. "I licked Hans Steinke without much trouble, while I would have beaten Stecher if his handpicked referee had not called the affair a draw when I had Joe on the run. I chased Strangler Lewis until I got leg-weary, but he would never consent to meet me. The same goes for Earl Caddock.

"I WATCHED Sonnenberg in his bout with Joe DeVito. All he has is his flying tackle. I figure I'll stop the flying tackle with a straight arm. Sonnenberg is lacking in experience. I'll admit the youngster has plenty of courage and strength.

"SONNENBERG showed a lack of confidence in his own ability to win when he insisted that I agree to give him a return match within 30 days in the event I lifted the title. If necessary, I can lick Sonnenberg twice within 30 days.

"I am taking the short end of the money next Tuesday night, but once I get the title I'll dictate the terms."

KOLOFF AIDING SONNY'S FOE TO TRAIN

Marin Plestina, huge "trust buster," will have the services of Dan Koloff and Farmer McLeod as he winds up his training grind for his finish match with Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world at the Arena next Tuesday night.

Plestina works with McLeod and Koloff at Toland's gymnasium today, tomorrow and Saturday. Koloff, in particular, should be of great value, for the champion of the Bulgars has been Sonnenberg's partner ever since Sonny won the title from Strangler Lewis.

Plestina insisted that the $10,000 diamond studded belt which Sonnenberg won from Lewis be awarded the winner of the match, and after some hesitation Sonnenberg agreed. The champion is to receive a $10,000 guarantee for his appearance against the 225-pound Plestina, with a privilege of a return match within 30 days in the event that he is defeated, and because of that arrangement, he consented to put the belt at stake.

Two Tough Games Loom for Harvard Nine in 2 Days

BIG GRE EN AND BROWN TO BE MET

Infield Problems and Pitchers Are Worrying Coach Fred Mitchell

By TED LYNCH

HARVARD faces one of the toughest week-ends on its long baseball schedule. Beginning tomorrow, on successive afternoon Coach Fred Mitchell's ball team will be called upon to face Dartmouth and Brown, two of the best college nines.

A week ago Harvard was ready for such a test, but today it is a different story. The Harvard team is in very poor physical condition right now. Eddie McGrath, Harvard's leading slugger and stellar shortstop, has not attended practice this week and probably will not face Dartmouth tomorrow.

McGrath sprained his ankle in the Penn game on Saturday, and treatments have not helped the injured member at all. Coach Mitchell ordered the sophomore to lay off until this afternoon. His showing in light practices will determine his chances of breaking into the varsity roster in the next two days.

IF McGRATH is unable to play Mitchell will be forced to revamp his entire nine. Captain Everett Donaghy will be moved from third to short. This will pull Al Whitney from leftfield to the hot corner. Pete Todd will go to the outfield.

Mitchell needs McGrath as he never needed him before. His hitting was expected to offset the shortcomings of other members of the team, who are in a disastrous batting slump. McGrath is the keystone of Harvard's infield and his absence will certainly weaken the infield defense.

But Mitchell's troubles do not end with McGrath. His pitching staff is causing him no small amount of worry. "Mitch" intends starting Howie Whitmore, his star moundsman, against the Big Green tomorrow. The hard part comes in picking the starting hurler for the Saturday game against Brown.

Red McHale and Ernie Molloy are the logical candidates for this down the Saturday assignment. Neither comes up to the rank of Whitmore. Molloy looked great against Villanova and his showing in that contest probably will hand him the job against Brown.

Mrs. Baker Enters W. G. A. Semi-Finals; Two Former Champions Eliminated

Mrs. Tufts, Mrs. Belcher and Miss Stebbins Other Survivors

By BILL GRIMES

Although two former champions were eliminated in the third round of the Women's Golf Association championship, today, at Charles River Country Club, Mrs. Edward H. Baker, Jr., the defending champion and Mrs. Donald M. Belcher, a former title holder, reached the semi-final round by scoring 4 and 3 victories over Mrs. C. F. Eaton, Jr., Wellesley, and Mrs. R. K. Byers of Hoosic-Whisick, respectively.

Of the two former champions who were eliminated, both of whom were defeated, two up and three to play, Miss Margaret Curtis of Essex was put out by Mrs. Walter Tufts, Jr., of Tatnuck, while Miss Frances Stebbins of Brae Burn defeated Mrs. E. T. Stone of Belmont Spring.

As the result of to-days matches, Mrs. Baker will play Mrs. Tufts and Miss Stebbins will meet Mrs. Belcher tomorrow in the semi-finals.

A fine 4 at the eighth hole put Mrs. Kasser 3 up, but she lost the ninth to a 4, which made her 2 up at the turn with a medal score of 44. Mrs. Baker chipped in for a second birdie at the 10th and after she had won the 14th hole with a par 3 the match ended with the 15th, which was halved with 5's and the champion winning 4 and 3 decision.

Mrs. Walter Tufts, Jr., set the fastest pace to the turn, reaching there in 42 and 4 up on Miss Margaret Curtis.

Three putts cost Miss Curtis the fifth hole, but she took the sixth with a par 4 after which she dropped three in a row and was 4 down at the turn. On the inward journey Miss Curtis swung into a winning stride and by winning the 11th, 12th and 14th was only one down going to the 15th.

A fine par 5 at this hole put Mrs Tufts 2 up again and a 7 cost Miss Curtis the 16th hole and the match 3 and 2.

Miss Frances Stebbins of Brae Burn was up all the way on Mrs. E. C. Stone of Belmont Spring for she opened up with a win at the first and second and although she dropped the 6th hole to a par 3 and took three putts to lose the 7th, a part at the short 9th put her one up at the turn.

A 7lub third shot cost Mrs. Stone the 10th hole but she won the short 11th with a 5 which evened matters for those two holes.

Miss Stebbins ran down a beautiful putt for a four and a win and Mrs. Stone duplicated this feat at the 13th for a dead. The break of this match came at the 14th hole. From the 14th tee Mrs. Stone drove to the green, while Miss Stebbins tee shot caught in the trap from where she blasted out within 3 feet of the cup and dropped her putt for a three to win the hole as Miss Stone took 3 putts.

After they had halved the long 16th with 6s Miss Stebbins ended the match on the 17th green in reaching which Mrs. Stone missed 3 shots.

Miss Stebbins:

Mrs. Stone:

Although Mrs. R. K. Byers ran into three stymies and four three-put greens going out, she was only one down on Mrs. D. M. Belcher at the turn. An unplayable lie after a hook tee shot at the tenth and three putts at the eleventh cost Mrs. Byers two more holes, but she got one back at the twelfth, where Mrs. Belcher hooked into the rough and needed four to get home. Mrs Belcher wound up the match by getting par at the fourteenth and fifteenth.

HELEN WILLS AND EDITH CROSS LOSE

her Dutch partner rose to great heights to defeat the two American stars. Several times they broke through the powerful service of Miss Wills.

The American women scored only 32 points in each set, while their opponents scored 40 in the first set and 39 in the second.

The crowd in the stands cheered the victors wildly. It was a remarkable tennis. They played hard all through the match and were not in the least abashed by the fact that one of the opponents was the premier amateur player in the world.

Later in the afternoon Miss Wills, ; paired with Francis T. Hunter, defeated the Franchman, Daniel, and Mademoiselle Newfeld, 6—1, 6—4 in the second round of the mixed doubles.

Miss Wills was not her usual faultless self on the courts today She was guilty of several double-faults while serving. With the score at six all in the first set, she lost her service without scoring one point, giving her opponents a one-game advantage. Miss Bouman then proceeded to win her own service for the game and set.

The team work of the Americans was not up to par. Their drives and smashes failed repeatedly. The Spanish-Dutch combination found Miss Cross' service easy to fathom.

Miss Wills won the first set on her service. Miss Bouman followed suit and won the second. Miss Cross had trouble with her service in the third. She double-faulted and served out of bounds and was unable to keep her opponents from returning the ball when she put it in safe territory.

However, Miss Wills played a stellar net game and made the score 2 to 1 in the Americans' favor Senorita D'Alvarez won the fourth on her service.

After the first game of the second set went to deuce, the odd point seesawed back and forth four times before Miss Cross netted the ball and lost the game.

The Americans lost the second game when Miss Wills drove the ball into the net after deuce had been reached and Miss Cross then overdrove. The foreign pair broke through Miss Cross' service to win the third set, making it three love in games.

The Americans won the fourth by breaking through Miss Bouman's service, but Miss Wills then lost the fifth on her own service, making it four to one

Here the American girls staged a rally. They broke through Senorita d'Alvarez's service to bring the score to four to two, but Miss Cross again lost her service on the next game, and the score went to five to two.

With defeat in sight and the opposing team at match point, the American girls again rallied to win the next game against Miss Bouman's service and then Miss Wills won her own service, making the score 5 to 4.

Senorita d'Alvarez then won her own service for the game and match

Senorita d'Alvarez, who is considered Miss Wills' closest rival in the tennis world, was the sparkling light on the game. She covered a tremendous amount of ground and seemed to be all over the court through the two sets.

In a second round match of the mixed doubles, Miss Marjorie Morrill, paired with Baron de Morpurgo of Italy defeated Miss Coe of South Africa and the Frenchman Feret, 6—4, 6—4.

SCHOOL NINES IN 2 GAMES TODAY

By DICK McSWEENEY

The schoolboy baseball nines let up in their drive for diamond honors today, only two contests being scheduled.

However, it happens that the two games on today's bill have a special attraction for those fans who have watched the progress of B. C. high and Wentworth Institute nines this season.

The Maroon and Gold team opposes Boston Latin at the latter's grounds, and a lively tussle is in prospect.

B. C. high has done well this year, beating such teams as Newton and Melrose with comparative ease. Long and Boehner have hurled good ball for the James st. outfit and have been aided by the timely hitting of Curran, second baseman, and Harvey, catcher.

RED SOX TRADE DOUG. TAITT

The Red Sox today announced that Outfielder Doug Taitt had been traded to the Chicago White Sox for Bill Barrett, a Cambridge boy, who has played both in the infield and outfield in the Windy City for several seasons

Taitt, who came to the Carrigans from Nashville at the start of last season, left for Chicago today, while Barrett is due to arrive in the Hub in time to participate in Saturday's double-header with the Yankees.

Both clubs should profit by the trade.

The Sox have long been in need of a good right-hand hitter in the outfield and Barrett ought to fill the bill.

Chicago is getting a good left-handed hitter and a fair fielder in Taitt, and while he may not be as good an all-around player as Barrett he will be of more use to the White Sox since Barrett and Manager Lena Blackburn couldn't agree and the Cambridge boy hasn't been used in a game this year.

Carrigan probably made this deal because of Barrett's past performances at Fenway Park. The Chicago pitchers mowed the Cambridge boy was just an average ballplayer, but on Bob Quinn's orchard he always looked like the world's greatest outfielder, and infielder, too.

This swap is believed to be the forerunner of several more by the Sox. Both President Bob Quinn and Manager Bill Carrigan are disgusted with the way things have been going and are planning a wholesale housecleaning in an effort to strengthen the club

City Marshal Campbell late Saturday night fired with a shot-gun into a group of 11 high school boys and girls from Hume. The pupils drove in two cars to Eldorado Springs to have their photos taken.

When they got on Highway 71 one of the cars had a blowout. Both cars stopped and while some of the boys were working on the tire the rest of the party, in a spirit of mischief, hailed each passing car.

Occupants of one car drove to Rich Hill and told the marshal there was a bunch of hold-up men on the highway.

Campbell took the shot-gun and hurried to the scene. He says he told the group to hold up their hands, and they made no response. He then cut loose with his shot-gun twice.

One of the loads from the shot-gun struck Paul Yarick in the hip 35 times.

Campbell took the crowd in charge and marched them to Rich Hill. There it was learned who they were and they were released.

SHORTS COVER STOCKS, WITH RAILS UP

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, May 23—Most of the buying on the market today represented only the short covering of bears and was therefore not considered as a real test of its strength.

Many investors are out of the market temporarily because of the necessity for paying directly for new stock sold to them on "rights" by the industrial companies. This money will eventually come back to the market.

Investment buying of the rails accounted for the strength and activity of some of the high grade dividend payers, including New York Central and Nickel Plate.

The promoters of the nickel Plate consolidation made a change in their lineup by placing John J. Bernet, former president of Erie, at the head of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the king-pin of the Nickel Plate merger.

Buying of the oils accompanied the announcement that representatives of all oil companies had met with the federal oil conservation board to draft a plan for the restriction of crude oil production in some of the Western states.

The industrials were extremely unsettled and fidgety in the afternoon Bonds were also unsteady and commodities irregular

There was plenty of forced and frenzied dumping of speculative stocks in today's market. The market wobbled through the morning session, but it was evident that most sections were receiving strong support, and that the wholesale cleaning out of weekly margined accounts near the close of Wednesday's market had considerably strengthened the market's position, making it impossible for the bears to crack speculative prices very much farther

Wall St. buzzed with comments on the easy situation today. The host of stock traders hoped fervently for a raise in the New York call rate to 6 per cent this week, not only for the benefit of American business generally, but also for the removal of the biggest bone of contention of the whole year.

The bank directors meet at the close of the market, but they have voted so often, for the 6 per cent rate that there was little room for doubt as to their action today Meanwhile, call loans continued at 5 per cent, while 9½ per cent was expected for collateral time loans.

Beacon Participants Has Good Earnings

There was unusual activity in the shares of Beacon Participations class "A" preferred, which sold at a high of 21¼ in the Boston auctions Wednesday. Buying of the stock has been in anticipation of a splendid showing which the company will make in the year to end May 31, next. Report for the period will be available early in June and will show the full dividend on the class "A" stock earned by a wide margin. The company has had substantial profits from its bank stock holdings. At present it is in excellent cash position to take advantage of any attractive buying opportunities that may appear.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, May 23 (AP)—Selling out on the part of yesterday's buyers turned wheat values lower here early today. Selling was based on reports from railroad sources indicating, contrary to previous reports, the Canadian moisture situation gave no reason for alarm Opening unchanged, to 2c lower, set later underwent decided setbacks all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged to ⅜c down, and continuing to sag.

Eastern Mass. Has Net Balance Gain

Gross operating revenues of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. for April were $718,162, against $727,390 in same month a year ago. The net balance after depreciation, etc., was $100,085, against $89,171 in April, 1928.

LONG LIST IDEA WOULD HELP STATE STREET

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Tax Commissioner Henry Long appeared on Beacon Hill before the house rules committee to support his petition for an amendment to the law providing that certain foreign corporations file a statement with him. Commissioner Long would obtain information on stockholders who exercised their rights as the state does not have a return on selling of rights. The Long bill would be retroactive.

Henry Long

Opposition came from C. S. Pierce of the New England Telephone Co., who argued that no exigencies existed which made necessitate the Legislature considering this in its closing days. The matter is highly controversial, said Mr. Pierce, and should be considered under next year's business.

If the stockholders' lists were filed, as Commissioner Long desires, and made a public record, the action would be decidedly helpful to the many State Street interests desiring copies of stockholders' lists. There are many who now pay private houses an average of about two cents per name. The charge runs high in securing lists of stockholders of the major corporations. The purpose of securing the lists is usually to solicit purchases of stocks or bonds.

"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare. Many corporations have held that a name is of considerable value. Another angle, point of view, however, seems to find support among stockholders of Postum, who vote June 27 on the proposition to change the name of this well known company to "General Foods Corp." Chester says reasons for the change are that during the past few years Postum has brought together under its ownership and management 11 other food manufacturing companies. More than 20 products, representing many phases of the food industry, are made and sold by the company. Naming this period the largest organization has prompted the name of its original product—Postum. It has outgrown its name.

Venezuela as a leading oil producer-to-be was introduced in this column by the Federal Government had gathered any statistics concerning it. We gave the names of 29 major oil companies that had bought into the new field, including Rescon Oil of Boston. The importance of Venezuela today was emphasized by an Associated Press dispatch yesterday which noted that American oil interests were shifting their activities from Mexico to Venezuela, the need for representation in Mexico of the association of producers of petroleum no longer exists, it was stated, and Guy Stevens, who represented the organization in that country, has returned to New York. American oil producers, Mr. Stevens said, have withdrawn from Mexico as a result of the many obstacles thrown in their way in the past ten years.

Attorney-General Mitchell finds Secretary Mellon's views "disqualified from holding office of Secretary of the Treasury by reason of the fact that he owns stock in business corporations." With between 17,000,000 and 22,000,000 security holders in the United States, it would indeed be a serious condition if stock or bond ownership disqualified one for the holding of public office.

Some of the 1928 "investment enterprises," when analyzed, certainly look very much like the "blind pools" that used to be illegal in numerous localities.

Making transportation as speedy as is consistent with safety, but not forgetting that safety is essential for the continuance of our present prosperity. Brakes that function properly are highly important for the safe operation of motor vehicles. There is no doubt about steps being necessary to insure those who believe and act in "safety first" that all automobilists are complying with these essential requirements.

"Use the brakes more and the horn less," was one of former Registrar Frank Goodwin's outstanding slogans. And he meant brakes that work properly, not the "collegiate" or neglected variety. A general safety campaign and frequent brake testing is needed.

While again touching on the transportation problem, let us mention we heard considerable in financial circles on a recently published statement that all traffic officers could not drive automobiles. The consensus of opinion was that a knowledge of driving ought to be the first requirement of aspirants for the position.

* * *

The tariff bill in process of making is inspiring many hopes in industrial and farming circles, some of which may not be misplaced.

A car needs a horn. Have you a reason for real? Tell about it and give location in the Want Ads. That's the way to sell it.

ENTHUSIASM OVER O'FALLON CASE MILD

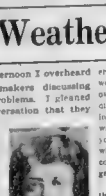
Many Dainty Recipes

THE latest news and sketches of fashions appear each day on the magazine page of the Boston Evening American. Also Martha Lee's helps on cooking and the menu. Recipes of the most approved chefs are among the many features appearing here and should be read by every woman.

Hot Weather Cooking



Martha Lee
(© Bachrach)

THE other afternoon I overheard a two home-makers discussing their cookery problems. I gleaned from their conversation that they were both mothers with a number of men folks in the family and the preparation of good meals was a matter requiring attention, especially now that the days were getting warmer.

Each confessed that she enjoyed cooking when the days were cool, but dreaded "standing" over a "hot stove" during the coming warm weather. How I did want to be the third party to their conversation, and tell them how I had solved that problem but of course, I could not. Since there are many home-makers facing the same question, I am going to tell you what I longed to say to them.

I think all of us are inclined to resort largely to top stove cooking which of course requires watching but we use the oven less often. But have you ever noticed the amount of heat given off when you are using three or four burners?

Now this is how I checked the temperature of my kitchen—I prepared exactly the same foods, cooking the meal one time on top of the stove and another time in the oven. The thermometer remained in exactly the same location, but the mercury went up eight degrees when using top stove cookery as compared with oven cookery. After four careful checkings I assured myself that oven cooking was of less heat.

Then I checked the gas meter, and—would you believe it—my dinner cooked in the oven used less gas than the one cooked on top of the stove. And another convenience not to be overlooked is the fact that no dinner cooked in the oven required three less utensils and I did not have to watch my meal.

Here is the menu

Chuck Pot Roast Gravy
Buttered Carrots Steamed Potatoes
Stewed Apples Cookies

Each food required a cooking pot for top stove preparation, while the meat, carrots and potatoes were cooked together in my covered roaster. The stewed apples were cooked in a casserole in the oven and served from the same dish. simple, you will say, yes, indeed—and three less pans to wash, something to consider when you are anxious to get through with dinner duties and enjoy the cool freshness of the porch or garden.

Here are two more dinner menus that will mean less work for you.

Oven Cooked Ham Slice with Scalloped Potatoes Buttered String Beans, Vegetable Salad and Strawberry Pie. Time of cookery: One hour in a 375-degree oven

HAM SLICE WITH SCALLOPED POTATOES

1 thick slice ham (uncooked).
4 c. sliced raw potatoes.
1½ c. thin white sauce.
Salt and pepper

Place ham in bottom of casserole, cover with sliced raw potatoes and season with a dash of pepper and a little salt. Pour over the whole thin white sauce and bake, uncovered, for ½ hour in a moderate oven (350° F.). Then place the ham slice on top of the potatoes and continue baking 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender and ham is well browned, but not dry.

BACON MEAT LOAF

6 slices bacon.
½ lb. lean veal.
1 lb. lean beef
1 green pepper
2 eggs.
1 c. milk.
1 c. bread crumbs.

Grind the meat. Mix with chopped pepper, eggs, milk and bread crumbs. Line a baking pan or casserole with strips of bacon. Fill with the meat mixture. Lay strips of bacon over the top. Bake in a 400° F. oven for 45 minutes. Turn upside down on a large platter and garnish with vegetables or mashed potatoes.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

Bobby—Gee, mother, today I answered a question right, for the first time in a week.

Mother—Well, I'm glad you did. What was it?

Bobby—You see, mother, it was like this. The teacher called out my name, and I said "Present."

BETTER BY FAR

TRY Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes. They are crisper. They have a better flavor—the famous flavor of PEP.

More nourishing too. You get the vitamins and mineral salts from the wheat. Just enough to be mildly laxative. Ready-to-eat.

TRIM SPORTS TYPE

This style I'm illustrating today is particularly suitable for the inexpensive cotton fabrics that is the smart set are choosing. It's both ably effective in print. Rayon voile, a yellow-beige ground with soft brown, yellow and orange motifs. The bodice has an inset yoke with applied neckband of plain soft brown shade voile, which appears again in revers that reach to center waistline, belt and cuffs. The attached skirt shows youthful arrangement of plaits across front in kilted effect. The back is smart and slender. Sleeves fitted with darts below elbows. Style No. 8069 can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the 36-inch size 4 yards of 32-inch material is sufficient, with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting. It's stunning, too, in Lelong blue silk crepe printed in white polka-dots with plain blue crepe or a gingham check.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (wrapped carefully). Enclose 15 cents additional, if you wish a copy of our latest book of Fifth Avenue Fashions. All our styles are created in Paris or New York. Every pattern contains full directions. No experience necessary. Very easy to use and guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Address all orders to Boston American Fashion Dept., 501 Fifth Ave., New York City.

YOUNG OSTRICHES—SO CAREFULLY HIDDEN—SO PLAINLY SEEN!

TRAVELING westward from the Atlantic coast to the blue-silk Pacific, almost always a peaceful, but, like all usually peaceful things, able to get up an awful mad when it wants to, is even better than the vividly colored, vividly worded booklets on "See Your Own Country" say it is. More fascinating, more romantic, more thought-inciting

After the great mills, the mighty bridges, the rolling, gentle hills, the big waters, the oceans of grain, the lakes that are like seas, the rich farms—each with a gran'father, it seems, for I saw one ancient sire sitting or strolling on each one, I know—the corn and cattle plains, the mighty blue walls of mountains, the painted desert, the cities grown from rustic babies to cosmopolitan giants, the gorgeous gashes of canyons, the high parks, flower-embroidered soon when the snow goes, ruled over by solemn, musical pines, the small, bright prairie town, with its wide main street, the cedars and the orange trees of the last land's edge, after all these, you find still more romance right on the train!

Outside is the setting and swiftly passing actors, some of them the ghosts of the great pioneer drama. Inside are other very lively points of interest—colorful, amusing, enchanting, and so on—and on—and on.

Among them is the BRIDE AND GROOM. The bride and groom! Their state so carefully and elaborately concealed, so plain to be seen. Young ostriches with their blissful heads in the sand of Paradise.

Brides-and-grooms are one of the delightful things that happen on the cross-the-continent trains. Not so thick, like dancers on the floors of the night clubs, as they are on the boats to Bermuda. But pleasantly likely to be bestowed at least one pair to each observation car. No rice—no looks at one another—just two young people in extra-smart clothes with a mysterious air of newness about them —newness of journey, newness of frocks and furs and broad-shoulder-ed suit, socks and ties, newness of manner, newness of companionship. Absorbed each in a leather-backed train book, or the scenery, but, oh so plainly honeymooning! Betrayed by the rainbow aspiration of Cupid's presence—given away by some bright mysterious aura, some glimmer of the rare robes of the lady Romance, actually present for a little while.

I wonder if they will ever just happen to see THIS? The Nordic young man and the tiny girl with a pointed chin, going—I wonder where, to be happy—I hope for always. Named what? Just another delightful bride-and-groom seeing America first!

Dr. Bisch on Embryo Geniuses

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

BRIGHT children are a special problem.

Except for a few exceptions here and there throughout the country, specially gifted children are put in the same classes as those of average mentality.

The result-is that these children, with a faster rate of development, are held back to their own detriment.

We advance because of what our superior people can accomplish. And therefore superior children should receive special educational training so that opportunity may be given them to develop their very best to the very best.

A few years ago I examined and studied a four-year-old boy who, according to standard mental tests, scored 200 per cent normal. In other words, his brain was of such superior development that he was able to do things that only the average 12-year-old child could accomplish.

At 18 months he could carry on a conversation intelligently in sentences. His sound memory was truly remarkable. He could recognize no less than 25 different songs when played, sung or whistled.

At 16 months he knew his alphabet. He could recognize letters even when held upside down.

At 20 to 22 months he sang and recited in Latin and French and easily remembered historical facts and chemical formulas. When I examined him he recited the whole of Warren's "Bunker Hill Address" in a way that gave plain evidence of understanding.

There have been other cases like this. You may recall the Sidis boy, who discussed the "fourth dimension"—the mystery of the mathematicians—before a group of university professors.

Certainly children of such exceptional require special training!

Should you happen to have such a child, one who is truly superior be sure you consult some expert in educational matters. See to it that the child's unusual development is not thwarted or held back.

Unfortunately, we know less about these specially gifted children than we do about those of defective mentality. But we do know that the child endowed with superiority should receive more special attention than the average public or private school curriculum can give!

Sometimes these embryo geniuses are as far behind in some abilities as they are advanced in others. Naturally, the things they are gifted in they like to do. The parents, too, tend to push their development along lines in which their offspring shine.

The result? A curiously lopsided kind of advancement—bright and scintillating in some subjects, dull and inferior in others.

Often, too, an unstable nervous system goes with it which bears close watching.

But if these principles be borne in mind, well-rounded intelligence can be achieved.

The keynote of the training of specially gifted children is individual study and attention.

You need not necessarily feel exalted because you have such a child. But if you see to it that the child is developed like it should be—intensively, individually and wisely—then only have you fulfilled your duty and may justly feel proud.

Improving Your Knees

By MARIA JERITZA

ARE you proud of your knees?

This question might have shocked a lady of other days as almost immodest in its suggestiveness. But the modern woman frankly has knees, which gleam, silken and shapely, half-visible beneath her frock hemline, or show forth slenderly dimpled when she dons her one-piece bathing suit.

Since knees are at best only half-hidden, and are often fully revealed, does it not behoove us to see that our knees are things of beauty?

My first and most important bit of advice to the woman who would have beautiful knees, is, get out of steeple-heeled slippers and shoes except for evening wear. For your daily walks, and while attending to your daily duties, wear Oxfords or pumps scientifically designed to fit your feet comfortably and support your instep. These can be obtained in all the standard makes.

American shoes are famous the world over because of their scientifically-designed, healthful comfort as well as small appearance. That may be the reason American women have such shapely legs, for the fit of shoes has a tremendous bearing on the perfection of the feet, ankles, calves and knees. But do not expect slenderly-rounded, graceful knees, free from lumpiness if you insist on hobbling about on all occasions on the French heels that crowd your feet down into the toes, hold your arches at a strained angle and throw your knees and legs out of natural alignment.

Round garters and over-tight bands will cause rolls of flesh just above the knees. Tight bands are always objectionable because they interfere with circulation. A silken circle garter will hold your hosiery neat and straight of seam and will not disfigure your knees.

Muscle-bound knees are as graceful as telegraph poles. To keep your knees flexible exercise them. The tensing and relaxing of muscles and joints that results from exercise will make them graceful and supple. Swimming, dancing and running are exercises par excellence for the knees. So is the following:

Stand straight with your weight over the balls of your feet, keeping your balance by holding the back of a chair. Lift your right leg straight in front of your body at hip level. Now bending your right knee, circle your right lower leg on your knee as an axe to the left 20 times, then to the right 20 times. Alternate by raising your left leg in front of you in the same way and circling your left lower leg on your left knee 20 times in each direction.

AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

GAME CONTRACT

Auction Bidding—South, pass, West, one Club; North, one Heart; East, one Spade. South supports Hearts and West supports Spades and two Spades becomes the contract.

Contract Bidding—West's two Spade bid is raised to three by East, and West then bids four for game.

Salient Points of Contract Bidding—East, with values considerably in excess of the minimum required for a betterment take-out, risks nothing in taking out with a bid of only one, as unless West can offer better than average support both in and for Spades, East should be content to play the hand if permitted, at a low contract.

West, although holding better than average support for Ea's Spade bid, can have no sound reason for showing his excess values unless East, following West's assist, can show better than a minimum take-out.

The Play—South opens the Heart 2 which East (Declarer) wins with the Heart A. East, pausing to count the hands, sees that, in order to make his contract, he must obtain at least two discards, or, to put it the other way about, must make, in addition to five Spade tricks and one Heart trick, at least four Club tricks.

Therefore, better to insure the needed four Club tricks, East, after winning the first trick with the Heart A, plays the next eight tricks as follows

2 Leads (Own Hand) Spade A

Plays (Dummy) Spade 2
3. Leads (Own Hand) Spade K. Plays (Dummy) Spade 8
4. Leads (Own Hand) Club 7. Plays (Dummy) Club A
5. Leads (Dummy) Club K. Plays (Own Hand) Club 3
6. Leads (Dummy) Club 2. Plays (Own Hand) Spade J.
7. Leads (Own Hand) Spade 4. Plays (Dummy) Spade Q
8. Leads (Dummy) Club Q. Plays (Own Hand) Diamond 5.
9. Leads (Dummy) Club 4. Plays (Own Hand) Diamond 6.

These eight tricks, plus the Heart A and the remaining Diamond, Spade 7, total the ten tricks needed for contract.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper enclosing stamped envelope.

Correct Manners

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1. Will you please tell how to receive an introduction?

2. What must I say when I am introduced to some one, especially when I am introduced to a boy friend's fiancee? BLUE EYES.

"HOW do you do" is the correct and accepted form.

2. "How do you do," adding anything else you wish. For instance, in this case, you would probably wish to offer the fiancee your "best wishes."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am giving a birthday party very soon at my home. What I should like to know is what is the proper way of writing out the invitations?

Will you kindly give me a sample and show me how it should be worded? MISS E. G.

IF you yourself are sending the invitations, the note of invitation is the best, since the party will probably be of an informal nature Something like this is best.

DEAR MARY

Mother and I are inviting some of my friends to come to our home on Friday evening, the first of May, to a little party in celebration of my birthday. We would be very happy if you and Jos will come—for we can give a birthday party without two of my best friends! Do say that you will come—about 8 o clock—will you?

Cordially yours,
JANE ELIOT.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

Please tell me, if when drinking coffee in a restaurant, the sugar is served in lumps in a bowl, with no tongs, is is proper to pick up the lumps with your fingers, or should you try to scoop them out with the coffee spoon?

LK

IF there are no tongs, you must use a spoon, or, if you are careful not to touch your fingers to the whiter pieces of sugar in the bowl, it is perfectly correct to use your fingers.

HIDDEN FIRES by Aileen de Vilbiss

CHAPTER 18

MAKAPUU POINT is a wild, desolate section of the coast of Oahu, which all outward steamers must pass en route to the Far East. It seemed eerie in its desolation as the motor car which bore Don Carlos bumped over the rough road and the small wooden bridges which spanned some of the waterways on the way to the point.

Don Carlos sat in the rear seat of the large green touring car. Every nerve was taut, quivering.

If only he had brought a loaded revolver. One never knew what might happen.

But then—he recalled that he didn't possess such a thing.

He laughed to himself. That he should be thinking in terms of loaded guns—he, Don Carlos.

He was finding the adventure as he had been seeking all his life.

The chauffeur was most noncommittal.

Don Carlos had attempted to engage him in some conversation; about the weather, about the region where he was being taken.

A muttered "Yes" or "No" was the extent of the chauffeur's answers.

The car sped through the black night; out past deserted farmhouses, with now and then a dim light peering forth from a dingy window.

What the devil could the little black bag contain—that they had to be so secretive in its handling?

He had heard that Makapuu Point was as desolate a region as man would care to see. Too bad that the night was so black; he would have liked to have seen it in the full light of the moon—that tropical moon which shed such a white light over the islands.

The car stopped with a sudden jerk. It recalled Don Carlos to the present—to the fulfillment of that which he had undertaken. He felt in the seat beside him for the small black satchel.

The chauffeur opened the rear door. Don Carlos stepped forth upon hard ground; stumbled—would have fallen save for the hand which the chauffeur held out to him.

Suddenly a red flash cut the darkness.

The signal.

Don Carlos held his breath, was fearful of taking a step.

Another flare—then a third one.

"Mahini!" came a guttural voice out of the darkness.

"Mahini!" responded Don Carlos. He groped into the darkness; extended the black satchel, which was clasped by unseen fingers.

What Has Happened So Far

Don Carlos Whiting goes to Hawaii after he discovers that his wife, Eve, is carrying on an affair with George Phillips, a neighbor. On landing, a native, David Nahuli, offers him $2000 for delivering a black bag. He sees Eugenia, Nahuli's wife, who fascinates him. Phillips carries on his suit for Eve's love, but quarreling brings unhappiness. Don Carlos meets Selma Wilson, crippled mother of an unusual family, which includes a daughter, Ruth. The latter plans a companionate marriage with Al Hindley, much to the disgust of her father, Big Tim Wilson. A woman drops a letter at Don's feet. It contains an invitation to meet her. The same day Nahuli orders him to carry the black bag again.

(Now Go On With the Story)

An envelope was slipped into his hand.

There was something eerie about the silent dispatch with which the transaction took place. Even the chauffeur turned as though the affair was over.

He'd be warned if this thing would end so suddenly. At least, he was going to take a chance and try to glimpse the face of the unknown one.

He bethought himself of the cigarette lighter which he always carried.

He slipped a cigarette from a pocket in his vest and silently snapped open the lighter. Once before its flare had shown him a face.

The astonished look on a Chinaman's face was fascinating to Don Carlos. He prolonged the lighting of the cigarette, studying, under cover, the features of the other man.

How in the world could he ever remember any of the features, when to him they all resembled one another?

Other tactics.

This man—Chinese—are its contents so important that a fellow had to take a wild drive over rotten roads to deliver it at a certain specified time?

The Chinaman maintained a stolid attitude.

Don Carlos became impatient.

"I say, can't you answer a fellow?"

"Me no talkee English. Alee same, I think you go with driver."

Don Carlos laughed softly.

He turned toward the chauffeur. What was that? He sensed something. Could it be that he had been followed? Surely that was the purr of a motor, a sudden quick grinding of brakes. Had they heard it?

He could hear the pounding of the surf a short distance from where he stood. Perhaps it had drowned the sound. The waves were lashing against a rocky beach, judging from the sound.

A light had suddenly appeared to the left of him—out on the water.

"What is that light?" he asked the chauffeur.

"Probably some fishing smack off the coast."

"At this hour of the night? Rather a lonely business out there?"

No response from either.

Blast their silence!

He wanted to make more of an adventure out of it; danger called to him tonight. He would have welcomed a good fight. Every muscle of him was in fine trim.

The chauffeur spoke:

"I have to report back into Honolulu as a certain time. Are you ready?"

The Chinaman had vanished into the night. The light on the water seemed to be moving nearer.

There was not a doubt in his mind but that the Chinaman would be taking the contents of the little black bag aboard the vessel. Doubtless it was one of the sampans which infested the Oahuan coast. He had seen hundreds since coming to the islands.

There seemed to be nothing to do save to go back with the chauffeur. He swallowed his disappointment. He certainly couldn't pick a fight with two men who seemed inclined to mind their own business as thoroughly as this pair did.

His eyes were now accustomed to the darkness.

Was that a dim outline of a car, far over to the right?

Bosh! He was seeing things. There wasn't a sound.

He climbed into the car, and 1 o'clock saw him back at his bungalow.

He sat and pondered over the events of the evening. Somehow, sleep would not come.

She closed her eyes. The lilt of a thousand birds' songs in her ears . . . or was it heavenly music? Paradise!

Frank Hinkler grinned good-naturedly.

"Let the kid alone!"

Frank was too valuable to lose. So Oh, much too useful.

As they ambled round the show, no bogran hinting about marriage!

"Great little companion, Irma, aren't you? If you ever feel you want — um — someone — always around you, try me out!"

"In what capacity?" She believed in getting right to the bottom to an offer.

"As a husband, m'dear."

She shook out a merry laugh, gave him a playful push.

"Stop kidding!"

"I'm in earnest. I'm fond of you, old dear."

Later, Irma broke away from him and, commencing on her own account, searching for truant Kitty.

When she halted at the bottom of some old stone steps, mossy and worn, she heard the murmur of voices—a man's and a girl's—over toward the left.

And the idyllic little tableau that she saw made her take a sharp intake of breath.

Kitty was shaken and pale with her emotion. She leaned against Jimmie's shoulder, her eyes closed. And Jimmie looked down at the soft beauty of her—the delicate sweep of her young throat.

To protect this Kitty—have her for his own!

Oh, Vina didn't really love him —nor he her! That was nothing but a foolish understanding that had been an offshoot of youth.

But he wanted—to press his lips against Kitty's hair, her lovely eyes that were closed, her soft young face.

She sighed those pretty eyes just at that moment and looked up at him. Ah, drink of this exultant sweetness! Seize this magic moment ere it passed!

One was put upon the earth to live—for love—for happiness.

"Oh, don't!" The words were smothered underneath his kisses as his lips closed on her own.

Tears of rapture crept into her eyes. He kissed them away.

He kissed her hair, ran his fingers through its clinging fragrance, lifted a curly lock that hid her ear and whispered — close — words of a bewildering sweetness.

"Kitty—please put your arms around me." He caught her hands, like captive birds, in his strong palms, and wound them tight around his neck, and stooped his face, as rapt as her's, so that their lips met . . .

"I love you, Kitty." He had said it. The miracle, after these aching weeks of waiting, had occurred. He listened in a rapture. Let her cheek rest against his own.

He whispered: "Darling. You do care for me, a little? It's wonderful to have you—here—like this!"

With a little sob she drew his head down again. Her sweet, delicately-chiseled lips parted. Her little tongue, fringing the pretty eyes, fluttered. She whispered, breathlessly: "Jimmie!"

"Oh! That's Irma!" Lips parted, eyes starry, she spoke breathlessly. "Oh! I must go—they're waiting—"

"I'll telephone you tomorrow at noon," said the young man quickly.

"Hello, Kitty! Why, Mr. Barron!" Irma Painter paused in assumed astonishment at her tracks. "You here? What a pleasant surprise!"

Jimmie blushed under his tan.

Confound the woman, butting in on himself and Kitty before he'd had a chance to explain himself and his maddeningly equivocal position!

Kitty's attraction had come upon him suddenly, sweeping him off his feet with its sweet face. He had never meant to be here—never meant to tell her that he loved her. He had fully intended to play the game with Vina, although backsliding against hope that Vina would soon give him his conge.

He said gruffly: "You needn't be surprised to see me here. My work is my principal absorption. It leaves me with little time for social affairs."

"Yet you come here," supplemented Irma mockingly. She was astute enough to perceive the awkwardness he felt.

She hugged her tums at once. It wouldn't do to antagonize this man. She wanted to have many more evenings with him in the future. If Kitty Grayson could wean him away from Vina, how much more than a feat would be for Irma herself!

Irma began to plot and plan. . . .

She caught up with Kitty. Kitty was smiling, suitably, although she could have clawed the girl whom Jimmie had been courting. She turned to the young man.

"What do you say if we all go out together, one night the end of next week?" (Vina would be out of the way, by then! It would be a simple matter to take the wind from Kitty's sails, if she could get her innings going properly!)

"Who do you mean by 'we'?" Jimmie's gray eyes rested on Kitty.

Irma answered, audaciously: "Kitty and I—and you—and a young fellow Kitty's just crazy about!"

Irma suggested that Hinkler should join them on a party toward the end of the week.

What would Jimmie say?

He knew that she had come here in Frank Hinkler's machine.

But Jimmie's face was genial.

Kitty's eyes widened at the looked prettier.

Kitty awaited her Sunday 'phone call in a flame of expectance.

"He'll call me up . . . of course. He simply couldn't forget . . ."

Come to think of it quietly, here by herself, the explanation of their broken appointment yesterday had certainly been—lame.

Jimmie had made no mention of Vina at all.

He couldn't love that self-possessed ice-maiden! No matter at what situation Irma had hinted there wasn't room in a young fellow's heart for TWO girls.

But that Irma's cynical philosophy came back to Kitty now, to her disquiet.

"Ting—ting-a-ling." It came—and that there is no one else. I have had chances to go out with nice young men who have well-do parents, but have not taken the opportunity.

I am a quiet sort of a girl. I do not drink, smoke or dance. We have been invited many times to visit my friends, whom he also knows, but he'll never go. The theaters are the only places we go to in the winter. In the summer we have dandy times.

PUZZLED.

I AM quite sure, my dear, that you can guess the advice I am going to give you. Have a friendly talk with Jack. Explain that two years is too long for even a short engagement, and that both you and he should be free to go about with all your friends. Then give him back the engagement ring, accept some of those pleasant invitations you have received from other men, and let yourself be happy as a young girl should be. Two years from now, if you and Jack still care for each other and are financially able to marry, and if his habits are such as to make you comfortable and agreeable, there will be time to think about going with each other steadily and becoming engaged.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have never written to you for advice before but I have a problem I wish to solve and I can't do it alone.

I have been keeping company with a fellow six years my senior for one year and eight months. I shall call him Jack.

When we first went together he acted like a gentleman and was polite. Now he is just the opposite. He bosses me and is very cranky.

Last spring he gave me a ring to represent a secret engagement. My family needs my income for at least two years, and his family needs his, too.

He goes around with two other fellows. They go out with girls and tell them they are crazy about them, and the next night they will take different girls. These fellows drink. My friend was too intoxicated to come to see me last Christmas.

One day I was told to ask Jack how a certain girl was—and he said she was a girl he drove home a few times because he goes the same way she does. Lately my friend talks a great deal about this girl. He says he takes her out At first I thought he was fooling until I recalled what his friend told me.

When he is serious he tells me he only fools me about this girl.

MRS. JERRY C. JARVIS
R. F. D. No. 1, Palmer, Mass.

"I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old. My mother read your advertisement in the paper and tried the medicine to see if it would build me up. I had been frail and nervous and after taking three bottles I was in normal condition. Since then I occasionally have a run-down feeling which makes me weak, nervous and irritable and I find by taking two or three bottles of the Vegetable Compound I am back to normal. I recommend it to any woman and will answer all letters."—Mrs. Jerry C. Jarvis.

MRS. IRA ARNOLD
Box 63, Rocklake, North Dakota

"I was all run-down and out of spirits before my third baby was born so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had heard so much about it. It helped me with all my troubles and gave me an appetite where before I didn't eat at all and had to stop work to rest every once in a while. I did all of my housework up to the day my baby came, as I am a farmer's wife and could not afford help before. I feel just dandy now and I will tell every one how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is."—Mrs. Ira Arnold.

MRS. ANNA SOLTIS
45 Seaton Street, New Britain, Conn.

"I was working very hard in the factory and also had to do my housework when I got home. I began to get tired, had no appetite, no strength and finally wasn't able to do anything around the factory or at home. My husband had to do all the work for me. One day I said that I would do anything to get my strength back and a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took four bottles and I feel very much better, have a good appetite and more strength. I would be very glad to answer any letters asking about it."—Mrs. Anna Soltis.

If Ruptured Try This Free

Apply It to Any Rupture, Old or Recent, Large or Small, and You Are on the Road That Has Convinced Thousands

Sent Free to Prove This

Every ruptured man, woman or child should write at once to W. S. Rice, 181L Main St., Adams, N. Y., for a free trial of his wonderful stimulating application. Just put it on the rupture and the muscles begin to tighten; they begin to bind together so that the opening closes and the need of a truss or support or trues or appliance is then done away with.

Don't neglect to send for this free trial if you have a rupture. Doesn't bother you, what is the use of wearing support all your life? Why suffer discomfort? Why run the risk of gangrene and such dangers from a small and innocent little rupture, the kind that has thrown thousands on the operating table? A host of men and women are daily running such risks just because their ruptures do not hurt nor prevent them from getting around. Write at once for this free trial as it is certainly a remarkable thing and has aided in the cure of ruptures that were as big as a man's two fists. Try and write at once, using the coupon below.

FREE FOR RUPTURE
W. S. Rice, Inc.
181L Main St., Adams, N. Y.

(You may send me, entirely free, a Sample Treatment of your stimulating application for Rupture.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia — just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

POLICE UNITE TO COMBAT CRIME

Initial operation of the central bureau for police departments of the State to exchange data to aid in apprehension of hunted criminals gives promise of success. Thirty-four officers, representing 25 police departments, attended the session at Boston police headquarters of the Massachusetts Police Detectives' Association.

As an example of the working of the system, Lieut. Joseph Avery of Quincy was informed from a city in another section of the state, that a man who cashed worthless checks in that city is now in jail. Lieut. Avery explained how the check passer worked in Quincy and gave a description of the man, which another officer declared fitted a suspect he is looking for. He will try to identify the man now held for other crimes.

Another officer in his city told of house breaks during the last two months. Officers from two other cities some distance away declared that apparently the same gang had also been working in their communities.

The manner in which the houses had been entered, as explained by these officers, resulted in another officer reporting that men recently released from prison had been convicted in his city for doing exactly the same kind of work.

A description of these suspects was given to the assembled officers to make it possible for the police in 25 different cities to pick them up on suspicion.

The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 5, when a demonstration of chemical devices for fighting criminals will be made.

MRS. COOLIDGE PINS BADGES

Get Dogs Chasing Deer Swimming in Maine Lake

Sanford, Me., May 23—Tracing the buying of dogs, Game Warden George W. Clayton found two dogs pursuing a deer 40 feet from the shore in Mousam Lake. The deer, a doe, outswam the dogs, which were grabbed by Clayton.

The game warden is looking for their owner, whose identity he believes he knows. He wants to ascertain if the dogs are licensed.

Weston Lad Finds Bundled Baby Girl

The young five-year-old son of the caretaker employed on the Weston estate of Judge Samuel Bennett, got the surprise of his life and now thoroughly believes all the stories grownups have been telling him when, running along a path leading from a grove to the mansion, he saw a bundle and picking it up, was stonished to hear sounds coming from it which, a little later he found, belonged to a real live baby.

The bundle and infant, two weeks old baby girl, bore no marks of identification.

GERMAN WON'T SIGN YOUNG'S PLAN; QUITS

Berlin, May 23 (AP)—Dr. Albert Voegler, colleague of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht on the German delegation to the experts' conference on reparations at Paris, resigned that place today and the German government will accept the resignation.

Dr. Voegler returned abruptly from Paris yesterday, preceded by reports that he was dissatisfied with preparation proposals put forward by Owen D. Young, American chairman of the conference, and would refuse to affix his name to a settlement embodying them. Dr. Ludwig Kastl, who has worked with Drs. Schacht and Voegler at the conference, will succeed Dr. Voegler.

Today, in the real estate columns of the classified ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

BETTY COMPSON AND HUSBAND MAKE UP

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 23—There is no longer the slightest remnant of a doubt that Betty Compson and her director husband, James Cruze, have buried all differences and agreed to live together in peace and harmony.

This noble resolve was evident the moment Betty moved herself to the Cruze studios to play an important part in "The Great Gabbo" opposite Erie von Stroheim.

Betty is one of the Hollywood gals with a voice that the microphone loves. Whenever there are discussions on what the talkies are doing to the screen stars, Betty and Bessie Love are cited as noble examples of screen actresses who have made good in the talkies.

THE baby talk girl, Helen Kane, who gave Arthur Hammerstein some anxious moments when she walked out of the cast of his musical comedy in Boston, is headed in the direction of the coast. No discipline is worrying that young lady, for she has a pretty contract in her pocket giving her more money than she could possibly earn on the stage.

Her first talkie activities are in Hollywood will be "Sis Boom Barbara," a Nancy Carroll feature, with Frank Tuttle doing the directorial honors. Miss Kane better not start any temperamental stuff in the movies—it just isn't permitted in our best studios.

THESE children do grow up.

Eight years ago Lillian Roth was the child prodigy, aged ten, a little who was discovered by Eddie Cantor and given a chance to prove her talent. Most of these baby wonders fade out of sight and become first-class stenogs; here on manicurists in some swell beauty parlor. Not Miss Roth, who has just been signed to play opposite Maurice Chevalier in Guy Bolton operetta which Ernest Lubitsch is directing. Let us hope that Chevalier has a vehicle more worthy of his talent than "Innocents of Paris," which was just another movie.

FRANK FAY, who formerly was one of the "wild haniers" of Broadway, is finding his art popular in Hollywood these days. I am told that he is here, there and everywhere—always a part of every big public event. At any rate he has been chosen for the role in "Under a Texas Moon," which was originally scheduled for Monte Blue.

I do hope it is not because Monte's voice has failed. It is always a blow to us when any of our friends get in trouble with the microphone. "Under a Texas Moon" is to be an all-talkie and all-color picture for Warner Brothers. Noah Beery has one of the other important male roles.

I ALWAYS thought that Gus Edwards had a monopoly on "School Days." The song that he made so popular throughout the country and one that Ted Lewis, Warner Brothers, disregarding any prior claim, are about to make a talkie called "School Days" in color. "Tiger Rose" will also be in color. What did I tell you about these talkies soon will be bursting forth into a glory of pinks, greens and yellows? It is going to take a lot to convince me that color is desirable. It is distracting. Still, the color pictures we have seen in the past have not been examples of perfection in that line.

DEAR ME, I am always printing something that someone resents. An admirer of A. Scott Dine indignantly denies that the author of "The Canary Murder Case" and "The Bishop Murder Case" was ever a mere newspaper reporter. The offended one says that Van Dine as Willard Huntington Wright, was an art critic and has written several books on art.

He has had a nervous breakdown and while in the hospital he read detective novels for diversion and began thinking he could improve upon them. What is so bad about being a reporter? Lots of good people have been reporters. Of course we hate to brag about our own profession. Certainly it's just as honorable work as writing detective yarns.

THE Turks are getting a look at Marion Davies on the screen this week. Sidney Olcott sends word from Constantinople that "Little Old New York" is showing for the first time in Turkey. We had to wait for Turkey to see our three years behind in its movies but it's here at last. Well, doesn't it? "Little Old New York" was produced about five or six years ago and if our information from Mr. Olcott is correct it is the first time it is being shown in the land of the Crescent Moon.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random by an observer. Mervyn Le Roy keeping a late birth announcement at the Hotel Roosevelt, her name being Edna Murphy. Charles Farrell acepting congratulations from his friends when his boat came in second in the Catalina yacht races. Sid Grauman and Sue Carol buying clothes that may or may not be for her trousseau. Mrs. Jack Warner and Mrs. Darryl Zanuck welcomed at the Montmartre upon their return from New York.

Pastry Chef

WHAT'S IN ELK'S PASTRY

What's what in superfine pastries was demonstrated in the Martha Lee room yesterday when America Cenci, pastry chef of the Elk's Hotel.

The Elk's pastry certainly deserves the reputation it has achieved. The marvel is that one of the youngest of Boston's pastry chefs should show the efficiency of many years experience.

Mr. Cenci delighted a capacity audience with his Napoleons, Raspberry Turnovers, Petit Fours, Eclairs and Cream Puffs, Fig Cream Pie and fancy cakes; the recipes of which will appear in this paper next Saturday.

The last Chef's Day of the season will be observed next Wednesday, May 29th, when our good friend, K. Camille Den Dooven, will take charge of a lesson on delicacies. Enjoy a meal an advance notice to be on hand early.

NAMES WERE SIMILAR

Publication of a news item in which was stated that Mrs. Elizabeth F. Parker of Border st., Coolidge Corner, had died in New York hotel, is without foundation and the Boston Evening American tenderly regrets its publication.

Mrs. Parker did not die in the hotel mentioned. Police did not investigate the cause of her death and the jewels valued at $200,000 were found on a dresser is in error. Similarity of names and addresses caused the misunderstanding.

Mrs. Parker, widow of William L. Parker of Cohasset, died from natural causes on January 29, this year, at Santa Barbara, Cal. Members of her family were at her bedside. An inventory of her estate filed in Norfolk Probate Court revealed that she left $1,333,635 in personal and real estate.

War Zone Easy, Brockton Tough

Brockton, May 23—Genesio Castelluci, 29, of 172 School st., drove an ambulance for the Italian army for three years in the World War over mountains and stone walls and rough roads, without ever having an accident, according to his story in the district court. But when he tried to beat a trolley car around a turn, his auto ran into the side of the trolley.

Patrolman Finnegan took Genesio in tow, first to the police station and then to the courthouse where he was charged with reckless driving. He was fined $20.

What Purpose Do Police Re-Examinations Serve?

All police candidates for promotion to sergeant and lieutenant, whether they failed or passed the first physical test, are granted re-examinations by the Civil Service Commission.

"Such re-examination," says the commission, "is open to those who passed the first physical examination as well as to those who failed, but with the understanding that in both cases the percentage received in the re-examination, whether it be higher or lower than in the previous examination, shall rule."

But unless the system of marking is changed, what purpose is there in a physical re-examination? Two or three weeks make little difference in the physical fitness of the average human. Of course some candidates during the period elapsed since their failure in the first examination, may have learned to hop over hurdles or touch their fingers to the floor without bending their knees.

But what changes could any man make in his own physical condition which would make him fit to be a sergeant or a lieutenant now if he was unfit three weeks ago?

If it is possible to pass now where it was impossible to pass three weeks ago, then it must be possible for those who passed before to become unfit in a short time, and it is unlikely that those already eligible will take the chance of having their names removed from the eligible list by submitting to a new examination.

The system of marking that resulted in a candidate being turned down for a very slight physical defect agitated the many protests following the first examination and there is no indication that this system has been revised.

Everett Should Now Get New Hospital

Having received permission from the Governor and Legislature to borrow $360,000 outside the debt limit, Everett should no longer delay adoption of the necessary city order providing for the establishment and maintenance of a new hospital.

Surely, the need for such a hospital was clearly shown by Mayor Roche and other city officials who appeared before the Legislature in behalf of bill to give the city authority to borrow the necessary funds. The proposal has the indorsement of the Everett Medical Society and of nearly every physician in the city.

The Whidden Memorial Hospital, in its present form, is far from adequate to care for the city's needs, despite the high standard of its service. Under the proposal before the Board of Aldermen, Everett would enter into an arrangement with the Everett Cottage Hospital Association, under whose auspices the Whidden hospital is conducted, for a modern institution of a size and type in keeping with the city's needs.

The Everett Aldermen, at their last meeting, tabled the measure. On Monday, when they meet again, it is to be hoped the bill will be removed from the table and passed.

The need is urgent, the means are at last available. There should be no hesitancy in making use of them.

Capt. Parker Acts Wisely

Registrar Parker is to be commended for revoking the license of John J. McCarthy, of Somerville, who has been involved in three fatal accidents as a truck driver within a two-year period.

The fact that in each of the three cases, McCarthy was held blameless by the courts is quite beside the issue of whether he should be allowed to continue to operate a motor vehicle on our highways.

The registrar reports that he gave McCarthy a hearing and found him "seriously at fault" in the death of one of his victims. Here is a case, apparently, where the evidence of criminal negligence is not present, but the evidence of personal fault is clear to the registrar.

There are many incompetent drivers on our highways and Capt. Parker acts wisely when he takes action toward their removal on his own initiative and regardless of court findings.

Abolish Cruel Steel Traps

If the English setter dog owned by a Boscawen, N. H., man, were able to talk, the sportsmen of the nation would send him on tour lecturing against the evil of the steel trap.

The dog would know. For two weeks he lay helpless in a steel trap in the woods a half-mile from his home, without food, suffering slow torture and kept alive only because water was within reach of the chain-length that secured his prison.

What the domesticated animal suffered is suffered by every wild creature that is imprisoned in a steel trap. Only for the wild, death instead of life follows the arrival of man upon the scene of suffering.

If we are to remain a nation of sportsmen, the steel trap must go. The furs with which we adorn our persons must be obtained, as is the meat we eat, by methods more humane.

And in the meantime, if we are not positive enough of our own sportsmanship to abolish the steel trap entirely, can we not outlaw it in those communities where it is likely to inflict torture and suffering upon man's best friend?

Justice at Work

Surprises You, Sometimes

Harry F. Sinclair must spend three months in jail; not for stealing a naval oil reserve, but for refusing to answer questions put by the Senate Committee.

The men that did steal the naval oil reserves and were denounced by the Supreme Court are not disturbed. If you think that is a queer kind of justice you are quite right.

WINSOR McCAY

WITH its puppets—the editors of purchased newspapers, subsidized school teachers, college professors and hired legislators—the great industrial ventriloquist Power Trust has been staging a good vaudeville show.

The puppets on the Payroll sang and danced and spoke their lines.

And the public applauded until the Federal Trade Commission inspected the back stage and gave out its findings.

Then the great ventriloquial secret was out as Winsor McCay makes clear above.

The public, sore because it had been fooled, now demands that Uncle Sam "Give this Act the Hook" on the national stage and ring down the curtain on performances of this kind.

The Power Trust should be put completely under public control, its activities and operations rigidily restrained and regulated by the Government.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, May 23—Those ponderous mansions with generous frontage on upper Fifth ave. have given way way almost completely to de luxe apartment houses, known only by numbers.

Only a comparatively few remain to create the lavish aura New York so long associated with vast wealth.

Each offers that indefinable gloomy grandeur of barn like rooms and massive fire places before which Old Big Business sits to study financial pages. On the walls are massive and paint-chipped full-length portraits of ancestors who peddled polecat skins for the dilettanti to come.

The ancient halls are filled with rare vases, tapestries and other European loot. Eight months of the year they are sealed and boarded and give forth an eerie and musty smell of decay. Through the grilled doorways one sees those grave and chop-whiskered butlers so customary in drawing room dramas.

The visual outlook has the stiffness of the starched shirt. They are the last of the vanishing Bourbons, born to the aristocracy, and believe firmly in its hereditary supremacy. The manner is not meanly condescending but being born to such snobbiness know nothing else.

As one who for some ridiculous reason or other has no awe whatever of the vested interests or no particular dislike either, I have always nursed a secret longing to pop into one of the block-long drawing rooms at the coffee hour and announce casually that my uncle was the best tinner in Gallipolis, O.

The younger occupants of these houses, impelled by that restlessness born of superb idleness, are the seasonal visitors to Palm Beach, the Riviera, St. Moritz, and the summers are spent on those expansive Long Island domains where a house without two ballrooms is considered a shack.

The crisp paterfamilias is an etching in steel. His god to the finish is money. When his family departs, he moves to his club and never misses a day at the office. His wife is usually one of those fading roses whose life is spent in a round of sanitariums.

Every once in awhile rich youngsters break traditional shackles, thumb a nose at conventions and hike out on their own. I think of one living in one of those dank, clammy apartments on a mean little street on the left bank of Paris. Three years ago he had an allowance of $150 a week and all the charge accounts he desired. He is his father's mansion was a four-room apartment for his exclusive use. Now he had to attend every family dinners, decorous afternoon teas and was not permitted to bring anyone home whose blood was not the royal red. He now lives from hand to mouth with small jobs and looks shabby. Yet says he is happier than ever before.

The famous double of Grover Whalen leads an unhappy life these days. Before Mr. Whalen became police commissioner, the double was royally welcomed in the cafes. Today the bars close when he enters and shutters are hung up at the correct legal moment. The likeness is startling, but he is in reality a successful salesman and a jolly, good fellow.

It is one of those basement places with a goose necked electrical bulb over the door and a push button in the wall. All New Yorkers know them. After the peephole inspection, beyond is Jimmy's, Tony's or Eddie's and if you pass inspection anything from gin fizzes to sarsparilla is on tap. In this one is a bartender up from the old swing door saloon on the Bowery where the hungarian accent ruled. He is not accustomed to flip uptown patter. Consequently when an English actor, asking for a drink, said: "Make mine a Scotch and soda, old thing, and have a root-to-too yourself." It took four persons to unloose the gentleman's neck from the bartender's grip.

One of the most conspicuous first nighters is a venerable fellow with a Marquis mustache who always occupies Al. Last night I was told he was a rich corset manufacturer. It was my notion corsets had gone the way of the puff sleeve. I sought confirmation from, Mr. Robert Garland, a man-about-town. He thought corsets were passe too. "Unless," he added naively, "my dancing arm deceives me."

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

NEXT to a box-office man's expression when you ask for two-on-the-aisle, there is nothing quite so lofty and incredulous as a sub-deb's smile when you mention the quaint old emotion called "love."

"Work" is a man's nickname for the two hours he spends interrupting the office force and mussing up his desk before he goes out for the afternoon's golf.

You may drag him to the altar by sheer brute force, Diana; but it takes more than will-power to make a man love you.

A new heart interest, like a new pair of bi-focals, always spoils a man's eyes for the old ones.

Knowledge may be power; but after marriage a woman's happiness depends chiefly on the number of things she doesn't know.

A group of archaeologists, all WOMEN, are excavating in Palestine. Considering how many years women have been hunting for the things men lost, finding a couple of buried cities should be mere child's play.

"I love you!" is still the sweetest sentence in any tongue—but, alas, it is no longer a life sentence.

As long as she can see through either lens, a normal woman goes through life looking for the Ideal Lover and the Perfect Romance.

Up to twenty-five a boy's most absorbing problem is how to catch the women; after that, his biggest problem is how to UNcatch them.

Somehow, husbands "stayed out" a great deal longer when women tied them to their apron strings than they do now that they are tied by the purse strings.

The "Baer" Facts -:- By Bugs Baer

DAYLIGHT SAVING is a great thing if you know where to put it.

We have never yet discovered which end of the day is responsible for the economical adjustment. An hour is merely one hair on the whiskers of eternity. Our town has moved its clocks up an hour. If there are any beneficial results they must have been delayed in the mail.

Joshua commanded the sun to stand still. But he didn't try to rig up a taximeter on it.

We admit that sunrise is a beautiful hour. But we hate to see it.

Twilight is another magnificent session of 60 minutes. The lowing flivvers slowly wend their creaking way and the embattled bunkers cast their purple shadows over the exhausted golfer.

That extra hour of enforced daylight is supposed to be a concentrated boon to the business man.

It enables him to escape from the drudgery and turmoil of his office and to get home in time to collapse in his garden.

And what effect has this artificial stimulus of time had on civilization? We have used a hypodermic on eternity without postponing it a minute.

It has compelled man to compare the feeble pulsations of his wrist watch to the mighty throb of the gears of the universe. He thinks he is better off, but you cannot fool a time clock.

The motorist saves the oil in his lamps but squanders twice as much in his cylinders.

You can't milk a traffic cop. But you cannot swindle a glow worm.

The roosters crow on their prewar schedule and the owls hoot without consulting the Hagerstown Almanac.

Nature sweeps along without the aid of red and green traffic lights and the tides rise and fall without political endorsement.

But all these things are trivial compared with putting a baby to sleep on daylight saving time.

What does a two-year-old baby care about municipal chronology? Time is something that makes a pleasant tickling noise in its ear and makes it laugh. When it comes to amusing an infant you can have the beautiful clock of Strasburg, and he will take a rusty old dollar watch.

But will a baby go to sleep when a delayed sun is shining an hour too late?

They have put the clocks ahead one hour and put the babies back two.

We do not like to complain to the mayor about this. We know that his testimonial wrist watch is like ours, more ornamental than technical.

But we would like to have the children's hour put in its proper place. Putting the baby to sleep is one industry that should never have been trusted to the depredations of the efficiency experts.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

DON'T take love lightly.

Don't shrug away its observances as "sentimental nonsense."

For the experiences and the rites of love, however slight they may seem, are the most sacred things in our existence—and the most mysterious.

Love is the deepest and the tallest thing in life. It penetrates farthest into the soil of our being —it reaches highest toward the source of our hope.

Cynics may tell you that love is but a part of your physical composition, like the heat in your blood or the hunger in your stomach.

They may tell you that it arises from a desire to reproduce—

Or a selfish desire to possess—

Don't believe them!

Love may work through your body, but it is not of your body.

It is above and beyond the needs of the body.

It is a bright dream that moves across the troubled waters of our being like a great star

Always men have reached toward that star, desiring it above everything else on earth.

They reached toward it when they were shambling, hairy brutes —they reach toward it now in their day of weary disillusion. Always they believed in love and trusted it. And love never betrayed their trust.

Those whom we love may fail us- but love itself never fails us. Whatever it costs, love is always worth while.

That is why "falling in love" is never silly. That is why the most trivial love story has a touch of the divine in it—and why men continue to believe in love though they have lost their faith in everything else.

Love is the supreme adventure. It is also he supreme liberator.

Love has power to lift men out of themselves—to free them for a while from the shame and selfishness of themselves.

Through love a man will rise above his cowardice and greed and forget even his own vanity.

Self-preservation may be the FIRST law of nature, but love is the LAST and GREATEST law. For love can overcome even a man's desire to preserve himself.

Because of love a man will die for his friend. He will do an even harder thing—he will LIVE for his friend.

Believe in love!

Treasure it!

Treasure it even though it comes in coarse and common guise. For though the waters over which love moves may be muddy, love itself is a star.

Worship love. Make a religion of it. Go into the thought of it as you would go into a shrine. Go into it seeking beauty, asking for healing—

For however ugly your life may be it will give your beauty—

And however sick your soul may be, it will heal it.

Love is a star! Follow the star!

Three-Minute Journeys Abroad

By TEMPLE MANNING

SEVILLE, sun-swathed capital of ancient Andalusia, is described by enthusiastic Latins as "The most Spanish of Spain." And American tourists who are lured to the sunny southern provinces this year by the great international fairs to be held at Seville and Barcelona, are likely to agree with this description. Certainly, nowhere else in all the Iberian peninsula does one find such definite traces of the ancient if somewhat crumbling glory of that luxuriant flower which once was Old Spain.

Straggling along the banks of the slow-moving Gundalquivir river, this walled and whitewashed city of a quarter of a million souls is, in essence, Spain itself. Nowhere else in this kingdom with an end such an indiscriminate mingling of the new and the old. Seville's lichen-covered churches shs holds inviolate. Not one cobweb may be removed; not a single hand-hewn block of crumbling stone may be replaced or repaired. But directly across the modern paved avenue, the massive steel girders of an up-to-date office building cast eerie shadows upon the face of the ancient church. That is Seville!

Laden donkeys wander willy-nilly through the busiest of its streets, but drivers of high-powered, imported automobiles mingle with them, and obey the signals of flapper, uniformed traffic officers as they observe traffic regulations as timely as those of New York.

Herds of unprotesting goats are driven through the streets by perpathetic milkmen who thus eliminate the middleman's profit, while smart gallants and Parisian gowned grand dames parade past in purring limousines. That, too, is Seville, the connecting link between the Spain of yesterday and that of tomorrow—the city that is more Spanish than Spain itself.

Medbury Says—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

WHEN it comes to taking bows, what a lot of actors need is a stop light.

Pitiful Cases

Financial Note

Money is a wonderful thing. A dollar nowadays will buy a quarter's worth of almost anything.

Take It Or Leave It

If a man reaps what he sows, harvesting ought to be pretty good on the roof gardens.

Auto-Suggestions

Necessary Evils

Blackjacks aren't decreasing in Chicago; the people are only getting used to them.

Null and Void

The art collector who says he has the largest miniature in the world.

Take It Or Leave It

A fellow with cauliflower ears isn't necessarily a prize-fighter. Maybe he got them caught in a revolving door.

Wonders of Nature

Our appendix isn't much use to us, but it's certainly done a lot for the doctors.

The Higher the Fewer

Efficiency Experts

The restaurant owner who wouldn't make the portions any larger, but he served them on smaller plates.

Our Own Vaudeville

Employer—Are you a responsible man?
